Sailor Arrested For Giving Navy Data To UN Reds

NEW YORK (AP)—The FBI arrested an American sailor Friday night on charges of passing Navy secrets to officials of the Russian delegation to the United Nations.

The sailor, seized in his car outside a diner on the Boston Post Road, Larchmont, N.Y., was sitting with a Soviet U.N. delegation member. A second Russian was inside the diner at the time, the FBI said.

FBI director J. Edgar Hoover identified the American as Yeoman 1st Class Nelson Cornelius Drummond, 33-year-old Negro, assigned to the U.S. Navy base at Newport, R.I. Drummond is a native of Baltimore, Md.

Drummond, in handcuffs, and the two Russians were taken to FBI headquarters in Manhattan early today. Arraigned later before U.S. Commissioner Earle N. Bishopp, Drummond was held on $100,000 bail and taken to the federal house of detention.

The Russians were released by the FBI under their diplomatic immunity after they had been identified at FBI offices by three other Soviet diplomats. The FBI said the two Russians had not been questioned.

Hoover said Drummond, a 16-year Navy veteran, had been under close observation since his naval service in London, England, in 1958. In 1959 he was reassigned to the United States.

Drummond, the FBI chief said, is specifically charged with traveling to New York on Aug. 13 and Sept. 7. After the trips, 11 classified documents and a miniature camera were found secreted in the trunk of Drummond's car, Hoover said.

FBI agents said the camera was bought by a Soviet U.N. employe in New York last February.

The FBI said Drummond was closely followed to a diner in suburban Westchester County by a car occupied by Evgeni M. Prokhorov, 31, a second secretary, and Ivan Y. Vydrodov, 38, a third secretary of the Soviet mission to the United Nations.

Vyrodov entered the diner, while Prokhorov parked the Russians' car alongside Drummond's auto. Prokhorov then entered Drummond's car, the FBI said, adding that when Drummond was arrested, agents found — on the seat of his car between himself and Prokhorov — eight classified U.S. Navy documents.

In addition to his naval duties, Drummond early this year purchased the Havana Bar and Grill in Newport, the FBI said, adding that on several occasions, when Drummond traveled to New York from Newport, he returned with large sums of money.

If convicted of espionage, Drummond could be sentenced to death or life imprisonment

Second State Official To Face Court Action In School Crisis

McNamara Gives Notice To Russians

Warns U.S. Ready To Use A-Arms To Defend Berlin

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States—speaking through Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara—has given the Russians clear notice it is ready to wield nuclear weapons if necessary to defend West Berlin.

McNamara wove this message into his report Friday—that he found nuclear-armed U.S. and West German ground and air units in a high state of combat readiness and in his measured declaration that:

"It is our policy to utilize whatever weapons are required to protect our vital interests, and we quite clearly consider access to Berlin a vital interest to the Western world and to the United States."

Never before had McNamara coupled such a statement with a pointed discussion of the nuclear battlefield and air weapons arrayed in West Germany, facing the Iron Curtain.

Informed sources confirmed McNamara's intent, saying:

"This is to tell them we have the nuclear power and we intend to use it."

McNamara refused to spell out the conditions under which U.S. nuclear weapons would be brought into play—for example, whether this would come only if Allied ground forces were in danger of being overwhelmed.

"Obviously, we are not going to define in advance of the act the specific circumstances under which we would use any particular military tactic or particular military weapon," the defense secretary said.

It appeared obvious that McNamara spoke with the full backing of the White House.

The aim is to impress on the Russians that the United States is determined not to be pushed out of Berlin or to allow the Communists to impede access to the encircled city.

ARGENTINE SHIP ABLAZE. A fire boat sprays water on burning Argentine ship Rio Jackal at a Hudson River pier in lower Manhattan late Friday night. The five-alarm blaze sent flames 50 feet into the air. Authorities said 15 passengers, including two children and 40 crewmen of the 18,000-ton passenger-cargo vessel, fled to safety minutes after the blaze was discovered by the ships' doctor. Judges Find Gov. Barnett In Contempt

Faces $10,000 Fine Daily; Ordered To Appear By Tuesday

OXFORD, Miss. (AP) — The University of Mississippi, made a battleground by the racial tug-of-war between state and federal governments, turned to a lazy football weekend today without its barricades and its helmeted citizen guards.

Impending trouble—perhaps violence—over enrollment of James H. Meredith, a Negro, in the all-white university, loomed at Memphis and New Orleans.

Today's scheduled action comes in New Orleans, where Lt. Gov. Paul B. Johnson of Mississippi has been ordered by the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals to appear and show why he should not be held in contempt for blocking Meredith's third try at registration.

The lieutenant governor has not said if he will honor the summons.

Mississippi Gov. Ross Barnett ignored a similar summons Friday. The eight-judge court found him guilty of civil contempt and demanded he purge himself by 11 a.m. Tuesday.

If he doesn't, the governor—battering ram of the state's head-on thrust against integration—faces a $10,000 daily fine and arrest. He would be held in custody of the U.S. attorney general.

Still another shadow of trouble for the defiant Mississippians arose at Memphis, Tenn., 87 highway miles to the northwest. There the federal government massed U.S. marshals and other federal peace officers. Giving them a housekeeping hand was a detachment of 110 Army engineers.

They bivouacked at Millington Naval Air Station, where a source said the marshals numbered 402 at sundown Friday and that the Settlement Ends 30-Day Rail Strike

Chicago And North Western Trains To Roll In 9 States

CHICAGO (AP)—Settlement of the 30-day Chicago and North Western Railway strike has given the green light to idle passenger and freight trains in nine states.

Freight and passenger service will resume "in a day or two or three," said North Western chairman Ben W. Heineman. The news elated freight car-starved shippers of grain, livestock and sugar beets in the harvest-heavy Midwest.

Some 35,000 Chicago commuters have been promised full service when they go to work Monday morning.

President Kennedy announced the settlement late Friday night after Heineman and union officials, including 22 railroad brotherhood leaders, had met in the Washington office of Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz.

The pact sent to arbitration four unsettled issues, including crucial questions on elimination of jobs by the railroad that triggered the strike by the Order of Railroad Telegraphers.

The company and union each are to name an arbitrator today, and agree jointly on the selection of a third arbitrator.

The arbitration board is to hand down its final and binding decision on the disputed matters within 10 days.

Telegraphers walked off the job Aug. 30 in a dispute centered on job elimination procedures.

The agreement, mediated by Wirtz and federal mediator Francis A. O'Neill Jr., came after five

Rusk Plans New Meeting With Russian

Reported Ready To Talk With Gromyko On Berlin, Cuba

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) —Secretary of State Dean Rusk was reported today planning a new meeting with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko to discuss Berlin—and possibly Cuba.

Official U.S. sources disclosed this as Rusk continued his round of diplomatic talks with an informal luncheon meeting of foreign ministers from the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization countries.

This group was expected to give special attention to the situation in Laos, South Viet Nam and Cambodia. The United States was understood to be watching closely for signs that the Communist Viet Minh forces were being withdrawn from Laos according to the agreement reached in Geneva July 18. Oct. 7 is the deadline for withdrawal of all foreign troops.

Part of Sunday will be taken up by talks between U.S. and British officials on Cuba and other issues. President Kennedy, British Foreign Secretary Lord Home and Rusk will be among the participants. The site of the meeting will be announced later.

U.S. sources said Rusk had planned to take up Berlin at his three-hour luncheon meeting with Gromyko last Tuesday, but had found there was not enough time after they had dealt at length with Laos and a ban on nuclear weapons testing.

Informants said Rusk was not anxious to take up the Cuban problem with the Soviet foreign minister because he considered the problem was not negotiable. They added, however, that the secretary of state would bring it up if a suitable opportunity arises.

Council Due Petition For Lighting Plan

A petition asking City Council to consent to a program to modernize street lighting in the downtown business district at private expense will be submitted at its meeting Monday night by the East Liverpool Merchants Association.

Almost 67 per cent of the property owners have signed the petitions, agreeing to pay the difference in cost between the present system and the powerful fluorescent lights proposed by the merchants, Ralph A. Finley, ELMA chairman, siad.

The petition will be turned over to Council in a caucus session at 7 by a delegation headed by Finley and including representatives of the executive and downtown improvement committees.

In effect, Council will be asked to negotiate a new contract with the Ohio Power Co. with the property owners guaranteeing to pay the difference in cost between the new and present agreements. The difference is estimated at $7,000 a year for 10 years.

Under the proposal, the city would certify the special assessment to the county auditor for collection on the real estate tax duplicate. The petition stipulates the rate to the property owners will not exceed $1.68 per year per front foot.

If approved, the fluorescent fixtures of a type similar to those demonstrated on a section of E. 5th St. nearly two years ago

Step Toward Curbing Arms Race

Kennedy Says U.S. Ready To Ban A-Air, Water Tests

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States remains willing to agree immediately to a ban on nuclear tests in the air and under water if a ban on all tests cannot be worked out, President Kennedy says.

He told representatives of the Gandhi Peace Foundation on Friday that such an agreement would represent a significant step toward curbing the arms race and the radioactive pollution of the atmosphere.

A White House statement setting forth Kennedy's position said the Gandhi group suggested the United States make a unilateral declaration it would cease atmospheric testing.

But the President, the statement said, pointed out "the difficulty of a proposal of this sort because of the previous Soviet breach of the moratorium."

The Soviet Union broke a three-year voluntary moratorium on nuclear testing a year ago with a series of tests. Since then the United States has resumed testing in the atmosphere and underground. Russia now is running off a second cycle of tests.

The Indian delegation, representing a private foundation, called on the President at the start of an international test-ban mission that will take it next to Paris and London. Another delegation is taking the foundation's appeal to Moscow.

In reaffirming U.S. willingness to agree to a ban on underwater and atmospheric tests, Kennedy said this country is "prepared to come to an agreement today."

Kennedy, the White House said, agreed with the Indian group "on the urgent necessity to bring about an agreed end to nuclear weapons testing" and that "early action should be taken to reduce the threat of war which nuclear and other weapons of mass destruction now pose."

The President said present U.S. disarmament proposals "address themselves to this key area of concern."

So far the Soviet union has rejected American-British proposals to ban tests in the atmosphere, underwater and in space. The Soviet representative at the Geneva conference called the proposals a step in the right direction but acceptable only if the United States and Britain also agreed to halt underground testing as well.

Auto Strikes Home After Traffic Crash

Wellsville Woman's Hearing Slated In Lisbon St. Mishap

A Wellsville area woman's station wagon was demolished and a 1962 sedan, two lawns and a home were damaged in a crash early this morning in the 2000 block of Lisbon St., police reported.

Mrs. Elsie F. Rohr, 34, of Wellsville R. D. 1 was cited on a charge which police said accuses her of driving on the wrong side of the road. She posted a bond for a hearing Monday in Municipal Court.

The collision was one of four investigated Friday and today by officers.

William W. Smith of Wellsville R. D. 1 told police he was headed east about 12:30 a. m. in his 1962 auto when the woman's car approached at a high rate of speed and struck the left side of his auto and kept going.

Smith said he pulled to the right as far as possible but was unable to get out of the path of Mrs. Rohr's auto.

Mrs. Rohr told officers Smith hit her and continued on his way.

Police said Mrs. Rohr's car caused an estimated $355 damage to the landscaping and home of Emil Hasenstab, 2037 Lisbon St., but the damage to the lawn at the

Weirton Man Avoids Prison

Probation Given In $4,020 Loot Theft

A Weirton man indicted by the September Grand Jury for theft of typewriters and adding machines valued at $4,020 was given a suspended 1-10-year prison term Friday in Hancock County Circuit Court in New Cumberland.

William W. Wagner, 28, was placed on probation for five years by Judge Ralph E. Pryor after changing his plea to guilty of grand larceny by emblezzlement.

Wagner had pleaded innocent when arraigned before Judge Pryor Sept. 11 and trial had been set for Oct. 31. The theft occurred June 20, according to Prosecuting Atty. Floyd R. Tarr.

Guy Brady, 35, of New Cumberland pleaded guilty to an indictment charging bigamy and will be sentenced Wednesday. Brady is charged with "unlawfully and feloniously" marrying Lillian Mae Bailey Jan. 28, 1961, in Hancock County while still wed to Doris Brown. The defendant's first marriage was April 16, 1948.

Michael Anthony Pochiro of Youngstown received a suspended one-year term in County Jail after pleading guilty to a misdemeanor indictment charging him with carrying a loaded weapon. He received probation for two years.

Prosecutor Tarr nolled a felony indictment against Pochiro, who had been arrested in Weirton several months ago.

The court continued until Oct. 11 a felony charge against Burley Roberts of Weirton.

Lisbon Woman Wins Right To Back Pay

LISBON — Common Pleas Court Judge Joel H. Sharp ruled Friday that Mrs. Esther Detemple should be paid $3,875 for working as assistant clerk in the dog warden's office while the State Personnel Department and Columbiana County commissioners were taking their case for illegal hiring to the State Supreme Court.

She sued earlier this month after working 15½ months without pay, asking a declaratory judgment against the commissioners and County Auditor Kenneth Bell.

She was one of four appointed after Republicans regained control of the Courthouse, replacing four named by the previous Democratic administration. Court later ruled for the return of the Democratic appointees, who then were dismissed again on political charges.

Income Tax Deadline Extended For 3 Days

The deadline for making third quarterly payments on the municipal income tax has been extended until Wednesday midnight, Tax Commissioner D. G. Wilkinson said today.

The deadline was extended for three days because the normal deadline is Sunday and millworkers will be paid Tuesday, Wilkinson said.

The payments are required for all individuals filing estimated returns, he explained.

Dr. King Attacked During Talk

White Man Is Jailed; Hits Integration Figure

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP)—"He got a good right cross to Dr. King's left cheek, then he hit him on the back of the neck.

"He threw two blows, then dropped his arms. He muttered something about 'I'm sorry'."

That was Wyatt Tee Walker's description after a white member of the American Nazi Party vaulted onto a stage and attacked Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., as the Negro integration leader spoke Friday.

The white man, Roy James, 21, of Arlington, Va., was quickly taken into Recorder's (city) Court. Judge Charles H. Brown fined him $25 and sentenced him to 30 days in jail for assault and battery—disorderly conduct.

The incident was the only act of violence here tracing to a four-day meeting of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, an integration group of which King is president.

King was giving a financial report near the end of the convention, and said Negro entertainer Sammy Davis Jr. would give a benefit performance for the SCLC in New York.

At that point James leaped from a sixth row seat, vaulted onto the stage, and hit King.

Walker, executive secretary of the SCLC, said James later told him that mention of Davis made him angry because the entertainer is married to white actress Mae Britt.

The blows staggered King. But he did not fall, and later refused to press charges.

However, an arresting police officer booked James, and King was brought into court to testify.

James, 6-feet-2 inches tall and weighing 200 pounds, towered over the 5-feet-10 inch King as they stood before Judge Brown. King weighs about 170 pounds.

Mayor Arthur J. Hanes walked into the courtroom while the trial was in progress. As James sat handcuffed and waiting to be taken away, Hanes pointed a finger at him and said:

"We don't want you to come back to this city. We're not going to put up with rabble rousers."

Washington Meeting Set In Kobuta Strike

A. A. Desser, federal mediator at Pittsburgh, said a meeting will be held Tuesday in the Washington office of the Federal Mediation Service for representatives of the Koppers Co. and Local 8-74, Oil Chemical and Atomic Workers.

About 615 employes have been on strike at the company's Kobuta plant since May 1 when an old contract expired. Several incidents have erupted during the long strike.

The union this week sent newsletters to members' families discussing the strike and accusing the company of using tactics to discredit the union similar to those employed during a strike last year at a company plant in New Jersey.

Rusk Plans New Meeting With Russian

Reported Ready To Talk With Gromyko On Berlin, Cuba

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—Secretary of State Dean Rusk was reported today planning a new meeting with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko to discuss Berlin—and possibly Cuba.

Official U.S. sources disclosed this as Rusk continued his round of diplomatic talks with an informal luncheon meeting of foreign ministers from the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization countries.

This group was expected to give special attention to the situation in Laos, South Viet Nam and Cambodia. Council Due Petition For Lighting Plan

A petition asking City Council to consent to a program to modernize street lighting in the downtown business district at private expense will be submitted at its meeting Monday night by the East Liverpool Merchants Association.

Almost 67 per cent of the property owners have signed the petitions, agreeing to pay the difference in cost between the present system and the powerful fluorescent lights proposed by the merchants, Ralph A. Finley, ELMA chairman, siad.

The petition will be turned over to Council in a caucus session at 7 by a delegation headed by Finley and including representatives of the executive and downtown improvement committees.

In effect, Council will be asked to negotiate a new contract with the Ohio Power Co. with the property owners guaranteeing to pay the difference in cost between the new and present agreements. The difference is estimated at $7,000 a year for 10 years.

Under the proposal, the city would certify the special assessment to the county auditor for collection on the real estate tax duplicate. The petition stipulates the rate to the property owners will not exceed $1.68 per year per front foot.

Step Toward Curbing Arms Race

Kennedy Says U.S. Ready To Ban A-Air, Water Tests

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States remains willing to agree immediately to a ban on nuclear tests in the air and under water if a ban on all tests cannot be worked out, President Kennedy says

He told representatives of the Gandhi Peace Foundation on Friday that such an agreement would represent a significant step toward curbing the arms race and the radioactive pollution of the atmosphere.

A White House statement setting forth Kennedy's position said the Gandhi group suggested the United States make a unilateral declaration it would cease atmospheric testing.

But the President, the statement said, pointed out "the difficulty of a proposal of this sort because of the previous Soviet breach of the moratorium."

The Soviet Union broke a three-year voluntary moratorium on nuclear testing a year ago with a series of tests. Since then the United States has resumed testing in the atmosphere and underground. Russia now is running off a second cycle of tests.

The Indian delegation, representing a private foundation, called on the President at the start of an international test-ban mission that will take it next to Paris and London. Another delegation is taking the foundation's appeal to Moscow.

In reaffirming U.S. willingness to agree to a ban on underwater and atmospheric tests, Kennedy said this country is "prepared to come to an agreement today."

Kennedy, the White House said, agreed with the Indian group "on the urgent necessity to bring about an agreed end to nuclear weapons testing" and that "early action should be taken to reduce the threat of war which nuclear and other weapons of mass destruction now pose."

The President said present U.S. disarmament proposals "address themselves to this key area of concern."

So far the Soviet union has rejected American-British proposals to ban tests in the atmosphere, underwater and in space. The Soviet representative at the Geneva conference called the proposals a step in the right direction but acceptable only if the United States and Britain also agreed to halt underground testing as well.

"He threw two blows, then dropped his arms. He muttered something about 'I'm sorry'."

That was Wyatt Tee Walker's description after a white member of the American Nazi Party vaulted onto a stage and attacked Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., as the Negro integration leader spoke Friday.

The white man, Roy James, 21, of Arlington, Va., was quickly taken into Recorder's (city) Court. Judge Charles H. Brown fined him $25 and sentenced him to 30 days in jail for assault and battery—disorderly conduct.

The incident was the only act of violence here tracing to a four-day meeting of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, an integration group of which King is president.

King was giving a financial report near the end of the convention, and said Negro entertainer Sammy Davis Jr. would give a benefit performance for the SCLC in New York.

At that point James leaped from a sixth row seat, vaulted onto the stage, and hit King.

Walker, executive secretary of the SCLC, said James later told him that mention of Davis made him angry because the entertainer is married to white actress Mae Britt.

The blows staggered King. But he did not fall, and later refused to press charges.

However, an arresting police officer booked James, and King was brought into court to testify.

James, 6-feet-2 inches tall and weighing 200 pounds, towered over the 5-feet-10 inch King as they stood before Judge Brown. King weighs about 170 pounds.

Mayor Arthur J. Hanes walked into the courtroom while the trial was in progress. As James sat handcuffed and waiting to be taken away, Hanes pointed a finger at him and said:

"We don't want you to come back to this city. We're not going to put up with rabble rousers."

Meredith

number of troops actually had reached 540 instead of 110.

This source also said determined marshals figured to use naked bayonets if necessary to move Meredith onto campus. Whether the bayonets would be in the hands of federal troops or federal marshals was not reported.

But these grim reminders of the historic struggle between Mississippi and the U.S. government—greatest and gravest since the Civil War—remained over the horizon. Skylarking students made ready to go to Jackson, the state capital, for the football game between Ole Miss and the University of Kentucky in the new stadium that is the pride of the Magnolia State.

The determination of the federal government to put Meredith into Ole Miss as the first Negro student ever knowingly admitted in 114 years is on record.

Burke Marshall, assistant U.S. Attorney general, assured the appeals court in New Orleans Friday that court orders would be carried out by the Justice Department.

"We're prepared to respond to whatever emergencies may develop," said Robert S. McNamara, secretary of defense, in Washington.

Atty. Gen. Robert Kennedy said: "Mr. Meredith will be registered."

Equally determined, apparently, were the officials of Mississippi, despite withdrawal of their massed array of peace officers that turned back Meredith on his third attempt to enroll.

However, H. C. Strider, chairman of the State Game and Fish Commission, announced that 250 supervisors and game wardens have been alerted to take part in the Ole Miss segregation defense—if needed.

In Jackson, the Mississippi legislature virtually ignored its special reapportionment session to ponder the roads to aid for Barnett and to hear reports from state officials.

After turning rapidly aside from a proposal to seek severance from the union, the legislature enacted and Barnett signed into state law a bill that declares acts of public officials in keeping public schools and higher education institutions segregated "are sovereign acts of the sovereign state of Mississippi" and not individual fancies.

In Congress, conflict over the Mississippi situation came in resolutions and public appeals to President Kennedy. Seven Northern senators signed a resolution that would express the sentiment of Congress that it supports the executive branch in an effort to enroll Meredith "by every appropriate means."

Seven members of Congress from Mississippi telegraphed the White House that "the highest state of heat and tension prevails in Mississippi . . . a holocaust is in the making." It urged the executive branch to withdraw federal troops in Memphis and "set at rest all reports and rumors that troops are to follow."

3 Of School Districts Go Back To EST

At least three area school districts — including Wellsville and Beaver Local — will return to Eastern Standard Time effective Monday, while the remainder of the schools in the district are scheduled to continue on Daylight Saving Time through October.

East Palestine schools will also switch to "slow" time Monday, but the city will continue on "fast time" for another month. The time conflict will also exist at Wellsville where the city will return to "slow time" Oct. 28.

Stanton Local Schools will go back to standard time, also Monday.

Beaver Local and the other districts revert to Standard Time in a move to reduce the highway hazard of fog for school buses.

Beaver Local officials indicated they plan a study of the number of days which fog would affect transportation to determine if retention of "fast time" for another month would be feasible in the future.

While Wellsville public schools will switch to Eastern Standard Monday morning, school activities such as football games will continue on the "fast time" schedule, Supt. Lowell Myers reported.

Columbiana schools have been operating on "slow" time since Sept. 5. The village will revert to Standard Time Oct. 28.

No district communities will make the time change until Oct. 28, although about a third of the states and their cities that began the fast time last April will drop DST Sunday at 2 a.m.

Tri-State District communities continue on the fast time through October.

Collection Of Trailer Tax To Close Monday

Collection of the Columbiana County house trailer tax for the second half will close Monday, according to Treasurer Vincent Judge at Lisbon.

This year, the tax is based on the real estate rate of the district in which the trailer is located. Formerly, it was a flat rate. Penalty for not paying the tax by closing date is $1 per day up to a maximum of $25, Judge said.

number of troops actually had reached 540 instead of 110.

This source also said determined marshals figured to use naked bayonets if necessary to move Meredith onto campus. Whether the bayonets would be in the hands of federal troops or federal marshals was not reported.

But these grim reminders of the historic struggle between Mississippi and the U.S. government—greatest and gravest since the Civil War—remained over the horizon. Skylarking students made ready to go to Jackson, the state capital, for the football game between Ole Miss and the University of Kentucky in the new stadium that is the pride of the Magnolia State.

The determination of the federal government to put Meredith into Ole Miss as the first Negro student ever knowingly admitted in 114 years is on record.

Burke Marshall, assistant U.S. Attorney general, assured the appeals court in New Orleans Friday that court orders would be carried out by the Justice Department.

"We're prepared to respond to whatever emergencies may develop," said Robert S. McNamara, secretary of defense, in Washington.

Atty. Gen. Robert Kennedy said: "Mr. Meredith will be registered."

Equally determined, apparently, were the officials of Mississippi, despite withdrawal of their massed array of peace officers that turned back Meredith on his third attempt to enroll.

However, H. C. Strider, chairman of the State Game and Fish Commission, announced that 250 supervisors and game wardens have been alerted to take part in the Ole Miss segregation defense—if needed.

In Jackson, the Mississippi legislature virtually ignored its special reapportionment session to ponder the roads to aid for Barnett and to hear reports from state officials.

After turning rapidly aside from a proposal to seek severance from the union, the legislature enacted and Barnett signed into state law a bill that declares acts of public officials in keeping public schools and higher education institutions segregated "are sovereign acts of the sovereign state of Mississippi" and not individual fancies.

In Congress, conflict over the Mississippi situation came in resolutions and public appeals to President Kennedy. Seven Northern senators signed a resolution that would express the sentiment of Congress that it supports the executive branch in an effort to enroll Meredith "by every appropriate means."

Seven members of Congress from Mississippi telegraphed the White House that "the highest state of heat and tension prevails in Mississippi . . . a holocaust is in the making." It urged the executive branch to withdraw federal troops in Memphis and "set at rest all reports and rumors that troops are to follow."

3 Of School Districts Go Back To EST

At least three area school districts — including Wellsville and Beaver Local — will return to Eastern Standard Time effective Monday, while the remainder of the schools in the district are scheduled to continue on Daylight Saving Time through October.

East Palestine schools will also switch to "slow" time Monday, but the city will continue on "fast time" for another month. The time conflict will also exist at Wellsville where the city will return to "slow time" Oct. 28.

Stanton Local Schools will go back to standard time, also Monday.

Beaver Local and the other districts revert to Standard Time in a move to reduce the highway hazard of fog for school buses.

Beaver Local officials indicated they plan a study of the number of days which fog would affect transportation to determine if retention of "fast time" for another month would be feasible in the future.

While Wellsville public schools will switch to Eastern Standard Monday morning, school activities such as football games will continue on the "fast time" schedule, Supt. Lowell Myers reported.

Columbiana schools have been operating on "slow" time since Sept. 5. The village will revert to Standard Time Oct. 28.

No district communities will make the time change until Oct. 28, although about a third of the states and their cities that began the fast time last April will drop DST Sunday at 2 a.m.

Tri-State District communities continue on the fast time through October.

Collection Of Trailer Tax To Close Monday

Collection of the Columbiana County house trailer tax for the second half will close Monday, according to Treasurer Vincent Judge at Lisbon.

Owners of about 60 trailers have not paid and in the event they have been sold, then the new owner must file within 30 days, paying the balance of the year's tax. The former owner's liability cannot be transferred to the new owner.

This year, the tax is based on the real estate rate of the district in which the trailer is located. Formerly, it was a flat rate. Penalty for not paying the tax by closing date is $1 per day up to a maximum of $25, Judge said.

Hookstown Birthday Club Awards Prizes

Game prizes were awarded at a meeting of the Birthday Club Friday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Short of Hookstown R.D. 1.

Winners were Mrs. Albert Hughes, Mrs. Gordon Campbell and Mrs. Roy Allison. Lunch was served by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. Ruth Matchett. Nine were present.

"When the results of these X-rays are received from the State Department of Health, food handlers' permits will be issued by the County Health Department."

The mobile unit will be at Chester City Hall Tuesday from 9 a. m. to noon and 1 to 4 p.m.; Weirton Shopping Plaza, Wednesday from 9 to noon and 1 to 4; Kroger's parking lot, Weirton, Thursday from 1 to 4 and 6 to 9 p.m. and the Longo Building, Weirton, Friday from 9 a.m. to noon.

Motorists Unhurt In Crash At Rogers

The State Highway Patrol at Lisbon said neither driver was hurt in a collision at the intersection of Routes 7 and 154 in Rogers Friday at 11 a. m. due to the traffic light being out for northbound vehicles.

Police said Albert L. Lorenz, 66, of North Lima was eastbound and had the green light when his car was struck by another coming through the intersection, driven by Ira P. Bradley, 34, of Youngstown.

Lorenz was starting to make a left turn. Police said the red light was out on the southside of the traffic signal for the northbound motorist. Damage to the cars was minor.

Bargain-Rate Fines Offered

An opportunity to have their fines reduced by $10 by attending a traffic safety film was offered six motorists at hearings Friday night in Eastern District Court of Judge Herbert Arfman of East Palestine.

Judge Arfman said the penalty will be reduced if the violators see the film, "Mechanized Death," Oct. 25. Sixty attended the showing of a similar film, "Signal 30," earlier as Judge Arfman launched a program designed to make motorists more aware of the seriousness of minor traffic violations.

These motorists, all cited this week by the Lisbon State Highway Patrol, were fined but given the opportunity to have their penalties cut by $10 by viewing the film:

Robert McKinley of Wellsville R. D. 1, speeding, $20 and costs; Robert Murphy of East Palestine, failure to stop at an intersection, $15; Betty J. Greenwood of Rogers R. D. 1, speeding, $15; Alva A. Thornhill of Lisbon R. D. 2, failure to stop at an intersection, $15; Charles W. Shamblin of Lisbon and Alvina M. McAdams of East Liverpool, crossing a yellow line, $15.

Coy Duley of East Palestine was fined $50 and costs and sentenced to 30 days in jail on a charge of transporting untaxed liquor. Duley was also fined $15 and costs for failure to stop in the assured clear distance ahead after a traffic crash on Route 14 Tuesday.

That Bad Old 87th Congress

As they say on television when something goes wrong, if you're not getting the picture of Congress that President Kennedy is talking about on the 1962 political stump, don't blame your own set.

The trouble is elsewhere.

It's in the upside-down-cake composition of the national Democratic party, which cannot use the same rationalization in Mississippi that it uses in New York.

This inconsistency makes no sense to voters and no sense to candidates.

WHEN THE President takes a cue from Harry Truman's 1948 campaign and rants against the "bad old 87th Congress," he is asking people to forget that both the House and Senate are dominated by his own party.

Then when he takes a cue from Houdini and says the 87th Congress wasn't so bad after all — look what it has been doing lately — he is asking people to believe the political hand is quicker than the voter eye. What became of the dastardly Republicans all of a sudden.

The 87th Congress can't be both good and bad.

President Kennedy can't cozen people into thinking Congress could be made all good by electing more Democrats to the 88th Congress when the 87th Congress already had a two-thirds majority in the Senate and a three-fifths majority in the House.

PARTISAN politics aside, where it won't really be at any point in the congregational campaign, Mr. Kennedy knows as well as anyone else what the problem is.

As head of the Democratic party he cannot command a partisan majority in Congress because his party is split on the civil rights issue.

As chief executive of the United States he cannot command a bipartisan majority because he is unable to appear in a bipartisan role. The bipartisan personality that works so well for some lesser politicians and worked wonders for Dwight Eisenhower would be incongruous if John F. Kennedy tried it. He is a Democrat from the ground up. But he needs more than his partisanship.

So what is a poor confused voter to do when the political picture as presented by Mr. Kennedy gets blurred?

THERE IS only one thing he can do.

That is to vote for the congressional candidates who most nearly satisfy him.

It never was the intent of the Constitution that congressional candidates should try to satisfy anyone else but voters in the congressional districts and the states — senators to represent the interests of states, representatives to speak for the people, themselves. It is not their business to please presidents.

Presidential interference in congressional elections has been resented oftener than it has been welcomed. In 1962, President Kennedy would do well to stay out of the campaign altogether. He has nothing to offer but confusion.

Red China And The Bomb

Communist China celebrates Oct. 1 as its national day, marking establishment of Red rule throughout the mainland in October 1949.

Sooner or later somebody has got to be right. For more than two years, observers with varying degrees of sophistication have picked out one Red Chinese demonstration or holiday after another as a likely occasion for detonation of the nation's first atomic devise.

Recently a U.S. Disarmament Agency official predicted China would join the nuclear club "within a matter of months," though he later described the remark as careless.

The National Planning Association, in a policy statement and technical report issued as long ago as January 1960, included Red China as one of 11 nations capable of making nuclear weapons in the relatively near future.

The Soviet Union is known to have helped build Communist China's first nuclear reactor and cyclotron.

China enjoys heavy deposits of thorium and uranium. Nevertheless, producing plutonium is no simple task. The principle of the pure fission bomb is now widely understood. Scientists can readily obtain all needed basic data except for details of detonation design and isotope separation. The N.P.A. estimated almost three years ago that a would-be nuclear power would have to spend about $100 million to produce its first bomb and devote five years to the task.

The atom bomb in the hands of Red China, whatever it might do for its prestige in Asia, is not the militarily awesome thing it might seem. The weapon is virtually useless without a delivery system, and as France is finding out right now, delivery systems are not easily come by and are excruciatingly expensive.

The 'Anti' Virus Strikes Again

Ten years ago, talk in the British Commonwealth was about England entering a new Elizabethan Age. It was to be reminiscent of the "merrie days of olde" when poets sang sonnets, authors scribed books and playwrights penned dramas. The intrepid ranged far and wide in search of commerce, and courtiers were ready to command a warship or lead an army.

The new Elizabethans were to be on their toes, with a light in their eyes and fired with confidence to face any 20th century challenge.

Now the first decade of the present Queen Elizabeth's reign has ended. The bright hopes have dwindled or disappeared. The disillusionment was reported in a recent edition of The Times of London by one who has made an investigation into the nation's spirit and mood.

As reported by a London correspondent in a dispatch to the New York Herald Tribune, the Times writer discovered a "malaise, a sense of bewilderment, a lack of purpose and a general atmosphere of doubt, if not of actual depression. Instead of an eagerness to meet problems and challenges there was a general negativity of response."

The "malaise" is diagnosed as an infection of the "Anti" virus—aimless opposition. In politics, neither the Conservative nor Liberal party is popular and many voters have turned to the Liberal party as a gesture of contempt.

Two years ago, the United States was hailing the New Frontier as opening the golden age. Our prestige was to be raised around the world, the nation's rate of growth was to be accelerated, jobs were to be had by everyone who sought work. All our national ills were to be cured and prosperity was to be enjoyed by all.

Americans, too, are disillusioned.

The situation in Cuba, as at trouble spots all around the world, is getting worse instead of better.

The nation is not experiencing the booming prosperity it was promised. Unemployment is still a major problem. Our national image still is suffering. Some of President Kennedy's most wanted reform measures have been rejected by Congress.

So, all you countries beware, "The Anti virus can get you too—if you don't watch out!"

Summer vacation season is over. Time to put away the road maps, store the boat and salvage what's left of that last bottle of sun-tan lotion.

That's how it used to be.

Things are different now.

Summer vacation season is over, but there now are winter vacationists as well as summer vacationists. There also are year-around vacationists.

Looking ahead a few years, you can see the time when year-around vacationing will be as common as summer vacationing. The idea has been cooking a long time and is about ready to boil over.

It began with seasonal employment. Carpenters and bricklayers used to follow the sun south in winter, killing two birds with one stone. If they couldn't find work they at least had found pleasanter living conditions.

Seasonal labor had the same idea. It followed the crops.

Athletes caught on. They followed the sun. College students saw the merit of sun-following and swelled the enrollment of southern schools that had no curriculum to boast about but were long on sunshine.

The airplane, high-speed highways, unemployment compensation and affluent living, advertising, real estate promotion and wanderlust, all helped. In another generation it's possible that the chilblain belt will be left in charge of a caretaker crew and ski enthusiasts each year from Thanksgiving to Easter.

Southerners will have twisted away all the northern factories by that time anyway with promises of "controlled" operating conditions. Unemployment compensation will have become what it started out to be—a guaranteed annual wage, payable on demand.

Year-around school schedules will make it feasible to enroll kiddies in school any time anywhere. Classrooms will be open 12 months a year.

Shorter work weeks more bob-tailed than the shorties now being talked about will make it possible for working stiffs to collect enough forced overtime to sustain themselves with six months' effort a year.

Closed-circuit television and telephone conferences will wipe out distances. Jobs not requiring the physical presence of the jobholder will be performable in absentia, just as it already is practicable for tycoons, politicians vice overlords to run their affairs from the sun-drenched beaches of Florida, the Riviera, Hawaii, Rio and the South Sea islands.

So buck up, stranger. You can be a winter vacationist. You can get on the wave of the future now at economy rates before the price goes up! No one needs to have tired blood anymore.

Norwegian Ships Aid Red Trade

By Victor Riesel

Apparently the Norwegians do not take Cuba as a personal insult. That's regrettable since so many of us took the Nazi occupation of Norway quite personally and helped to keep their underground and the fleeing Norse labor leaders alive.

Victor Riesel

But times appear to change and the other day the Norse foreign minister told some of us here that Communist Cuba is essentially an American problem. And that Norwegian ships will continue to carry Communist supplies to Communist Cuba.

This soon will become a Norwegian problem. Foreign Minister Lange has forgotten that Norway runs a seafarers' union in the United States. It is here by grace of the State Department. Not only does the Norwegian Seamen's Union have a headquarters in Brooklyn, it has offices in other big American ports. This union is exempt from our own labor laws.

There also is in Brooklyn a tax-exempt Norwegian Seamen's House, replete with 85 rooms and 136 beds.

THIS IS FINE, except for our merchant seamen — some 40,000 of whom have lost their jobs to sailors of foreign merchant fleets. Norway's freighters alone carry more than 15 per cent of America's cargo to other world ports. Our own ships operated by members of such organizations as the American Merchant Marine Institute, carry only 10 per cent of our own overseas cargo.

At least 50 Norwegian ships a month put into New York. Some of these vessels go on into the Orient, picking up transshipments in such harbors as Singapore. Then they shuttle on to Communist China and back to Cuba and the United States.

Most of these Norwegian ships don't touch a Norwegian port for years. They simply ply between the United States and other national waterfronts.

A researcher was told by a Norwegian authority himself that fully 50 per cent of the Norwegian ship crews "never" get back to Norway.

The other half are rotated from time to time. Replacements are flown over to the United States. While in New York awaiting their ships so they can replace the men who have been away from home for years, they stay at the Norwegian Seamen's House.

Thus the Norwegian Seamen's Union is actually a permanent labor organization here with a permanent staff. It's leader, Einar Johansen, has lived in New York for a decade or so.

RECENTLY one of the union officials said that he has no problem he can't solve by contacting the State Department. Joe Curran, leader of the National Maritime Union, told this column that the Norwegian official said this to him at a recent conference: "All I have to do is lift the phone and call your foreign office (State Department)."

Thus the Norwegian seamen replace our seafarers and the Norwegian ship owners take business away from our own merchant fleet, which is slowly dwindling for lack of cargoes.

Curran now is working on a boycott of those ships which put into United States ports and then carry Communist supplies.

Pressure in Washington can also be expected from Paul Hall's Seafarers' International Union (SIU). The SIU has been quietly active in Washington for months now.

I have been working closely with SIU officials, tracing the ships of other nations now supplying Cuba and Communist China. Thus, this column was able to expose the use of Marshal Tito's fleet on the waterborne Soviet supply line. Because of disclosures by this reporter, the Yugoslav motor vessel "Drzic" was picketed in Houston the other day.

HERE, NOW, is a report on still another Tito freighter which has been making money out of our government - generated cargoes of surplus foodstuffs — and is serving the Moscow - Havana axis. She is the "Jablonika." Recently she carried a cargo from the Soviet Union to Cuba. Then she put in at a U.S. Gulf port.

On Sept. 15 she steamed, with a hold full of flour, for Alexandria. The flour is, in effect, a gift from the United States to the United Arab Republic.

Such trade now is being rejected by Japan and the German Federal Republic. Why should the Norwegians, who fought one totalitarianism, want to serve those who are occupying an island as once their homeland was occupied?

It all will come out during the congressional investigation at which, in addition to Secretary of State Dean Rusk and Joe Curran, it is probable that Secretary of Agriculture Orville Freeman, and Defense Secretary Robert McNamara will testify.

When the probe is over, there will be many who will tell our friends, the Norwegians, and those neutrals, the Yugoslavs, that the time has come when they must choose between Communist rubles and freedom before the choice is made for them.

Americans Aroused

U.N. Action Suggested On Cuban Problem

The American people are becoming aroused over the Cuban situation. They read apprehensively about missile and submarine bases being set up by the Soviet Union 90 miles away from Florida. The feeling is growing among people throughout the country that the Kennedy administration is failing to do its duty, and that the President is spending too much time making political speeches instead of concentrating on a crisis which, if not handled wisely, could lead later on to war—just as happened in the 1930s.

David Lawrence

What can the President do? This question is being asked often by those who don't wish to see military intervention of any kind in Cuba at this time. People also ask if there is anything else that can be done before invoking the Monroe Doctrine.

Certainly the mere passage of rhetorical resolutions by Congress is not going to allay public fear that the United States is faltering in its course and is presenting a picture of weakness and irresoluteness.

There is a line of positive policy that can be undertaken which, if pursued confidently and unequivocally, can stop the Soviet aggression in Cuba, or at least clear the air as to what may hereafter be expected in the world when Soviet aggression poses its frightful threat.

The United Nations was established to preserve international peace. Many people in this country have lost faith in the U.N., but nevertheless it does exist and the United States cannot afford to ignore its own solemn pledge to abide by the provisions of the charter.

THE CHARTER, moreover, permits any nation to bring to the attention of both the Security Council and the General Assembly any threat or act of aggression menacing its safety and security.

The United States government could lay the case before the United Nations with the warning that, if action is blocked now, there will be resort later to that provision of the charter known as Article 51, which permits a group of nations to take action on their own to repel aggression.

This means that the United States, if unsuccessful at the U.N. meetings, could go ahead and invite as many of the members of the organization of states as desire to join this country in a military intervention in Cuba.

The object would be to get rid of all Soviet missiles, weapons, and military personnel, as well as bases, in Cuba and at the same time to retake possession of all properties of foreigners that have been confiscated without proper compensation.

These are rights under international law which any member of the U.N. may assert, provided it reports to the U.N. what it is doing.

ARTICLE 51 of the U.N. Charter authorizes collective action in self-defense "if an armed attack occurs against a member of the organization." An "armed attack" against the Monroe Doctrine—the security system of the Western Hemisphere—has already occurred, as Soviet troops and war supplies have been landed in a country which is a member of the Organization of American States. The present government in Havana is a mere puppet of the Soviet regime.

Article 52 of the U.N. Charter specifically recognizes regional organizations as legal entities which can take action on their own. It says:

"Nothing in the present charter precludes the existence of regional arrangements or agencies for dealing with such matters relating to the maintenance of international peace and security as are appropriate for regional action, provided that such arrangements or agencies and their activities are consistent with the purposes and principles of the organization."

This means that regional action can be taken in self-defense, since Article 51 of the U.N. Charter says:

"Nothing in the present charter shall impair the inherent right of individual or collective self-defense."

This certainly doesn't say or imply that a U.N. member must wait till an enemy strikes the first blow. Everybody knows today that an armed force is stationed in Cuba which is building up its military position.

SELF-DEFENSE for the United States means interception of the enemy by compelling him to stop his acts of aggression and to abandon any territory already occupied—as in Cuba.

Procedures through the U.N. may take time, but they could clear the air. If ultimately the only way out is to take "individual or collective" action, the United States will at least know what its duties and responsibilities are for the preservation of peace and for the defense of the security of all countries in the Western Hemisphere.

The American people will also learn what benefit, if any, the U.N. can really be in an emergency involving the security of the United States and what nations in Europe, Africa and Asia are true friends of this country and defenders of human freedom.

Covering A Campaign

By Raymond Moley

LOS ANGELES

Democracy has its weird rituals, incantations, and superstitions, just as had divinely inspired royal families and tribal chieftains.

A very important item in democratic practice is the political campaign. The populace believes that it is acquiring the essential wisdom to select an individual to spend its money in public office by witnessing and sometimes participating in the goings-on.

Two harried candidates rush from place to place, performing the symbolic operations of pal-to-palm contact with every outstretched hand, speaking certain words denoting denunication of the opponent and dedication to the people in their affairs, and giving every manner of pledge of future bestowals of magic benefits.

ATTENDING these rites, managers contrive many sound effects, visual delights, and other diversionary hocus-pocus.

Manufactured enthusiasm is the objective, to convince the people that the election is "in the bag."

This, political soothsayers say, will win that indispensable marginal voter who would rather say after the election that he voted for the winner than use his brain to make a rational choice.

A subsidiary rite that attends the main operation is what is called "covering the campaign." This is performed by writers who follow the candidates and prepare material for the newspapers and other media.

Now this routine of covering a campaign is, in fact, older than democracy itself. It is an ancient and highly revered business.

I am not aware that Homer himself covered the seige of Troy. But we do know of the most celebrated reporter of ancient times in his own writing. Xenophon, for the completely mercenary purpose of gain, gathered some Greeks together and wandered far to the East.

There they butted into a dynastic struggle among the Persians.

THEIR CANDIDATE, Cyrus, was killed in the fraternal slaughter, and they found themselves in a murderously insupportable situation. There was nothing to do but to start for home, and home was a long, long way off.

We are told of that retreat in what is now revered in classical circles as Xenophon's Anabasis. It is a bloody account, with the Greeks contributing their quota of manslaughter.

I might add for the benefit of modern Xenophons that the ancient reporter finally acquired wealth by capturing somebody who was worth a potful of money.

Caesar was a politician as well as a general and wisely covered himself. His account of his meandering, pilfering, and warring in all three parts of Gaul was written to delight the bloody appetites of his fellow Romans. And to this day, high school students pore over its translation.

Caesar's constituents were so delighted by the magnitude of his atrocities inflicted on the yokels of Gaul that they wanted to make him king. But that story fell to the pen of another reporter, Plutarch.

Our modern Xenophons are the employes of publishers and managers of other media who want their offerings to be as exciting as possible.

The reporter's task is not easy nor is his burden light. Every great step in the art of communication has made the reporting of what happens more difficult, because it must be done literally on the run.

RECENTLY one of the union officials said that he has no problem he can't solve by contacting the State Department. Joe Curran, leader of the National Maritime Union, told this column that the Norwegian official said this to him at a recent conference: "All I have to do is lift the phone and call your foreign office (State Department)."

Thus the Norwegian seamen replace our seafarers and the Norwegian ship owners take business away from our own merchant fleet, which is slowly dwindling for lack of cargoes.

Curran now is working on a boycott of those ships which put into United States ports and then carry Communist supplies.

Pressure in Washington can also be expected from Paul Hall's Seafarers' International Union (SIU). The SIU has been quietly active in Washington for months now.

I have been working closely with SIU officials, tracing the ships of other nations now supplying Cuba and Communist China. Thus, this column was able to expose the use of Marshal Tito's fleet on the waterborne Soviet supply line. Because of disclosures by this reporter, the Yugoslav motor vessel "Drzic" was picketed in Houston the other day.

HERE, NOW, is a report on still another Tito freighter which has been making money out of our government - generated cargoes of surplus foodstuffs — and is serving the Moscow - Havana axis. She is the "Jablonika." Recently she carried a cargo from the Soviet Union to Cuba. Then she put in at a U.S. Gulf port.

On Sept. 15 she steamed, with a hold full of flour, for Alexandria. The flour is, in effect, a gift from the United States to the United Arab Republic.

Such trade now is being rejected by Japan and the German Federal Republic. Why should the Norwegians, who fought one totalitarianism, want to serve those who are occupying an island as once their homeland was occupied?

It all will come out during the congressional investigation at which, in addition to Secretary of State Dean Rusk and Joe Curran, it is probable that Secretary of Agriculture Orville Freeman, and Defense Secretary Robert McNamara will testify.

When the probe is over, there will be many who will tell our friends, the Norwegians, and those neutrals, the Yugoslavs, that the time has come when they must choose between Communist rubles and freedom before the choice is made for them.

Americans Aroused

By David Lawrence

U.N. Action Suggested On Cuban Problem

The American people are becoming aroused over the Cuban situation. They read apprehensively about missile and submarine bases being set up by the Soviet Union 90 miles away from Florida. The feeling is growing among people throughout the country that the Kennedy administration is failing to do its duty, and that the President is spending too much time making political speeches instead of concentrating on a crisis which, if not handled wisely, could lead later on to war—just as happened in the 1930s.

David Lawrence

What can the President do? This question is being asked often by those who don't wish to see military intervention of any kind in Cuba at this time. People also ask if there is anything else that can be done before invoking the Monroe Doctrine.

Certainly the mere passage of rhetorical resolutions by Congress is not going to allay public fear that the United States is faltering in its course and is presenting a picture of weakness and irresoluteness.

There is a line of positive policy that can be undertaken which, if pursued confidently and unequivocally, can stop the Soviet aggression in Cuba, or at least clear the air as to what may hereafter be expected in the world when Soviet aggression poses its frightful threat.

The United Nations was established to preserve international peace. Many people in this country have lost faith in the U.N., but nevertheless it does exist and the United States cannot afford to ignore its own solemn pledge to abide by the provisions of the charter.

THE CHARTER, moreover, permits any nation to bring to the attention of both the Security Council and the General Assembly any threat or act of aggression menacing its safety and security.

The United States government could lay the case before the United Nations with the warning that, if action is blocked now, there will be resort later to that provision of the charter known as Article 51, which permits a group of nations to take action on their own to repel aggression.

This means that the United States, if unsuccessful at the U.N. meetings, could go ahead and invite as many of the members of the organization of states as desire to join this country in a military intervention in Cuba.

The object would be to get rid of all Soviet missiles, weapons, and military personnel, as well as bases, in Cuba and at the same time to retake possession of all properties of foreigners that have been confiscated without proper compensation.

These are rights under international law which any member of the U.N. may assert, provided it reports to the U.N. what it is doing.

ARTICLE 51 of the U.N. Charter authorizes collective action in self-defense "if an armed attack occurs against a member of the organization." An "armed attack" against the Monroe Doctrine—the security system of the Western Hemisphere—has already occurred, as Soviet troops and war supplies have been landed in a country which is a member of the Organization of American States. The present government in Havana is a mere puppet of the Soviet regime.

Article 52 of the U.N. Charter specifically recognizes regional organizations as legal entities which can take action on their own. It says:

"Nothing in the present charter precludes the existence of regional arrangements or agencies for dealing with such matters relating to the maintenance of international peace and security as are appropriate for regional action, provided that such arrangements or agencies and their activities are consistent with the purposes and principles of the organization."

This means that regional action can be taken in self-defense, since Article 51 of the U.N. Charter says:

"Nothing in the present charter shall impair the inherent right of individual or collective self-defense."

This certainly doesn't say or imply that a U.N. member must wait till an enemy strikes the first blow. Everybody knows today that an armed force is stationed in Cuba which is building up its military position.

SELF-DEFENSE for the United States means interception of the enemy by compelling him to stop his acts of aggression and to abandon any territory already occupied—as in Cuba.

Procedures through the U.N. may take time, but they could clear the air. If ultimately the only way out is to take "individual or collective" action, the United States will at least know what its duties and responsibilities are for the preservation of peace and for the defense of the security of all countries in the Western Hemisphere.

The American people will also learn what benefit, if any, the U.N. can really be in an emergency involving the security of the United States and what nations in Europe, Africa and Asia are true friends of this country and defenders of human freedom.

Covering A Campaign

By Raymond Moley

LOS ANGELES

Democracy has its weird rituals, incantations, and superstitions, just as had divinely inspired royal families and tribal chieftains.

A very important item in democratic practice is the political campaign. The populace believes that it is acquiring the essential wisdom to select an individual to spend its money in public office by witnessing and sometimes participating in the goings-on.

Two harried candidates rush from place to place, performing the symbolic operations of pal-to-palm contact with every outstretched hand, speaking certain words denoting denunication of the opponent and dedication to the people in their affairs, and giving every manner of pledge of future bestowals of magic benefits.

ATTENDING these rites, managers contrive many sound effects, visual delights, and other diversionary hocus-pocus.

Manufactured enthusiasm is the objective, to convince the people that the election is "in the bag."

This, political soothsayers say, will win that indispensable marginal voter who would rather say after the election that he voted for the winner than use his brain to make a rational choice.

A subsidiary rite that attends the main operation is what is called "covering the campaign." This is performed by writers who follow the candidates and prepare material for the newspapers and other media.

Now this routine of covering a campaign is, in fact, older than democracy itself. It is an ancient and highly revered business.

I am not aware that Homer himself covered the seige of Troy. But we do know of the most celebrated reporter of ancient times in his own writing. Xenophon, for the completely mercenary purpose of gain, gathered some Greeks together and wandered far to the East.

There they butted into a dynastic struggle among the Persians.

THEIR CANDIDATE, Cyrus, was killed in the fraternal slaughter, and they found themselves in a murderously insupportable situation. There was nothing to do but to start for home, and home was a long, long way off.

We are told of that retreat in what is now revered in classical circles as Xenophon's Anabasis. It is a bloody account, with the Greeks contributing their quota of manslaughter.

I might add for the benefit of modern Xenophons that the ancient reporter finally acquired wealth by capturing somebody who was worth a potful of money.

Caesar was a politician as well as a general and wisely covered himself. His account of his meandering, pilfering, and warring in all three parts of Gaul was written to delight the bloody appetites of his fellow Romans. And to this day, high school students pore over its translation.

Caesar's constituents were so delighted by the magnitude of his atrocities inflicted on the yokels of Gaul that they wanted to make him king. But that story fell to the pen of another reporter, Plutarch.

Our modern Xenophons are the employes of publishers and managers of other media who want their offerings to be as exciting as possible.

The reporter's task is not easy nor is his burden light. Every great step in the art of communication has made the reporting of what happens more difficult, because it must be done literally on the run.

The presentation will be made by D. Michael Baxter to the congregation on behalf of the 1961 Challenge Class of sixth grade boys and girls, taught that year by Mrs. William C. Sturgeon. The work of the boys and girls was supervised by Mrs. William H. Smith Jr.

The seal is centered around a cletic or Presbyterian cross of red and gold and depicts symbols of the Burning Bush, the descending dove of the Holy Spirit, the banner of the victorious Christ superimposed on the orb of the world with the words in Greek, "Jesus Christ, Victor," and the open Bible with the Alpha and Omega.

The work of fabrication involved long hours, beginning with the blowing up of a smaller picture as a template to the present size of 36 by 42 inches. Using the template or pattern, John Gilkes, ceramic designer of the Taylor, Smith & Taylor Co., with the co-operation of Edwin S. Morse, manager, fired small pieces of clay in white, blue, gold and red, which were broken by the boys and girls and fitted together as a mosaic. Other materials used in the fabrication were purchased by the Dia Konia class.

WHAT IS MASTER PLUMBER?

Master Plumber is a sensational new Chemical Compound made expressly for opening clogged Sewers, Drains and Urinals. Its basic chemical is sulphuric acid with inhibitors added. These inhibitors are necessary as they stop the natural action of sulphuric acid on metals. Some of the metals protected by the inhibitors are copper, brass, steel, iron and galvanized metal . . . of course, lead is not affected by sulphuric acid. Master Plumber should not be allowed to contact aluminum as it will pit.

HOW DOES IT WORK?

The weight of Master Plumber is 15.30 pounds per gallon as opposed to water which weighs approximately 8.33 pounds per gallon. This 'heavy' weight permits Master Plumber to reach the obstruction, if the obstruction is organic such as toilet tissue, paper towels, sanitary pads, grease, hair, cloth, etc. Master Plumber will do the job . . . also excellent on uric salts and lime deposits. Master Plumber will not attack inorganics such as gravel, dirt, sand or concrete.

HOW MUCH DO YOU USE?

The recommended 'shot' for the average drain is three or four ounces. For 'root blocked' sewers, it is one to two quarts . . . this varies depending on the degree of blockage. For root-blocked sewers, the chemical is inserted through the center basement drain. Ventilation should be provided because, as the chemical goes to work on the corruption and foreign matter in a four inch drain, odors may arise.

What of other Liquid Drain Openers?

Ninety-nine per cent of liquid drain openers use either Sodium Hydroxide or Potassium Hydroxide as the chemical base. These are good in many cases, however, none of these can do the job with such a small amount of chemical or in the short time it takes Master Plumber.

Is It Hazardous To Use?

All drain openers should be handled with caution, whether liquid or dry. If any drain opener should get on your hands or face, it should be rinsed off immediately with water. Do not allow any drain opener to stay on the hands or face, at it can cause burns.

Is It Harmful to Septic Tanks?

That small amount of Master Plumber needed to clean the household drain will not affect the bacteria in a thousand gallon septic tank. However, large amounts such as two or three gallons used at one time, could retard the bacteria in that size tank.

WHAT IS MASTER PLUMBER?

Master Plumber is a sensational new Chemical Compound made expressly for opening clogged Sewers, Drains and Urinals. Its basic chemical is sulphuric acid with inhibitors added. These inhibitors are necessary as they stop the natural action of sulphuric acid on metals. Some of the metals protected by the inhibitors are copper, brass, steel, iron and galvanized metal . . . of course, lead is not affected by sulphuric acid. Master Plumber should not be allowed to contact aluminum as it will pit.

HOW DOES IT WORK?

The weight of Master Plumber is 15.30 pounds per gallon as opposed to water which weighs approximately 8.33 pounds per gallon. This 'heavy' weight permits Master Plumber to reach the obstruction, if the obstruction is organic such as toilet tissue, paper towels, sanitary pads, grease, hair, cloth, etc. Master Plumber will do the job . . . also excellent on uric salts and lime deposits. Master Plumber will not attack inorganics such as gravel, dirt, sand or concrete.

HOW MUCH DO YOU USE?

The recommended 'shot' for the average drain is three or four ounces. For 'root blocked' sewers, it is one to two quarts . . . this varies depending on the degree of blockage. For root-blocked sewers, the chemical is inserted through the center basement drain. Ventilation should be provided because, as the chemical goes to work on the corruption and foreign matter in a four inch drain, odors may arise.

What of other Liquid Drain Openers?

Ninety-nine per cent of liquid drain openers use either Sodium Hydroxide or Potassium Hydroxide as the chemical base. These are good in many cases, however, none of these can do the job with such a small amount of chemical or in the short time it takes Master Plumber.

Is It Hazardous To Use?

All drain openers should be handled with caution, whether liquid or dry. If any drain opener should get on your hands or face, it should be rinsed off immediately with water. Do not allow any drain opener to stay on the hands or face, at it can cause burns.

Is It Harmful to Septic Tanks?

That small amount of Master Plumber needed to clean the household drain will not affect the bacteria in a thousand gallon septic tank. However, large amounts such as two or three gallons used at one time, could retard the bacteria in that size tank.

EL Quarterback Picks Up 111 Yards In Team's First Victory

By BOB DUFFY
Review Sports Writer

The East Liverpool Potters marched into the winner's circle for the first time this season by sliding past New Philadelphia, 26-6, Friday night over a muddy Patterson Field.

Rain all day Friday kept the crowd down to around 2,000 but that number saw Bob Hedmond's Potters defy heavy penalties in the second half, and capitalize on fumbles to turn in their first victory after losing three straight. New Philadelphia dropped its fourth in a row.

Mainly responsible for the Potter victory was quarterback Chuck Baker, the 165-pound junior who is known more for his passing than his running, scampered for three touchdowns.

He drew raves after the game from his coach and his performance was his best in two years of service to the Potters. Baker ran his team on the ground almost all the way. Going to air eight times, he completed only one pass but gained a net of 111 yards himself on the ground while the Potters as a team grounded out 290 yards.

Baker carried 15 times and his average was better than seven per carry.

AFTER Baker raced for the first three touchdowns, Earl Olmstead, another shining star in the Potter victory, capped the scoring by sprinting 36 yards with only 39 seconds remaining in the game. Olmstead turned in a steady performance, subbing for co-captain Tom Kraft at left halfback. Kraft, out with an ankle injury, didn't even dress for last night's encounter.

The win by the Potters also broke a six-game losing streak over two seasons. The last victory by an ELHS team was over Bellaire St. John's in the seventh game of the 1961 season.

Last night's triumph, was actually closer than the score would indicate because the Potters didn't break it wide open until the final quarter.

—:—

EAST Liverpool's defensive forces contained the Quakers' 200-pound fullback Dale Tate pretty well. Tate only got rolling for one streak in the third quarter.

The passing of quarterback Jack Cargnel and the running of halfback Terry Keiser made up the brunt of the New Philly offense. Keiser was by far the outstanding running back for Coach Al Christopher's team.

The wet ball was hard to handle as New Philly found out the hard way, more so than the Potters.

East Liverpool turned three Quaker fumbles into touchdowns. The fourth TD was set up on an intercepted pass also hauled in by Baker, who did practically everything right.

THE POTTERS scored with 6:02 remaining in the first quarter after Dave Oliver had recovered a fumble coughed up by Tate on the New Philly 46.

In five plays the Potters moved to the Quakers 26 and a play later Baker went off to his right, then cut back up the middle going 26 yards for the TD. Baker tried to pass for the two-point conversion but failed.

Early in the second quarter, East Liverpool started a drive on its own 45 yard line that carried to the Philly two-yard line. But at this spot, Baker, attempting a short pitch to Bob Mercer, fumbled and New Philly's Eric Gribble recovered on his own two.

Two plays later, New Philly fumbled and Ron Echols and Bruce Burbick fell on the ball on the Quaker two. It took Baker only one play to dive over the right side for his second touchdown. Olmstead's run around the right side gave the Potters a 14-0 lead.

The clock protected East Liverpool's lead up to the halftime. New Philly started a drive on their own 20 that carried to the Potter three, mainly on the passing arm of Cargnell who completed passes to his two 6-foot-4 ends Gribble and Bob Celce, and halfback Terry Keiser but Fullback Tate could only make it to the one yard line when the first half ended.

WHAT New Philly didn't get accomplished in the first half came in the third period.

Two 15-yard penalties helped the Quakers in their 63-yard touchdown drive. The penalties were imposed when officials accused Potter players of grabbing the masks of the Philly runners.

The second was called on Bill Hall after the Potter end had thrown Cargnel for a substantial loss. It gave the Quakers the ball on the Potter 23.

In six plays, New Philly was on the Potter one from where Keiser cracked over for the Quakers' only score with 5:02 showing on the clock. Cargnel was stopped on his bid for a two-point conversion.

MOVING into the fourth quarter, the Quakers had a drive underway that carried to the Potter 26 where they ran out of downs.

East Liverpool moved to a first down but a 15-yard holding penalty set the Potters back again and they were eventually forced to punt.

The punt gave New Philly the ball with 5:10 remaining, but on the second down a Quaker back fumbled and end Randy Stover was Johnny-on-the-spot to recover on the Quaker 30 with 4:23 left in the game.

Then the Potters struck fast. Mercer, Olmstead and Baker carried the ball to the visitors seven. Baker then went around his right side, hurdled his last tackler by diving into the end zone for his third touchdown with 2:40 left on the clock. Baker fumbled in an attempt for the conversion.

Forced to the air lanes, Cargnel's pass was intercepted by Baker on the Potter 45 and returned to the Philly 25. At this point, tackle Dave Oliver was ejected from the game after a scramble with a New Philly player and another 15-yard penalty was assessed against the Blue and White.

The ball was placed on the 40, and after two plays, Olmstead shot off the left side and cut to the right for 36 yards and the final touchdown. A pass from second string quarterback Bob Forzano fell incomplete.

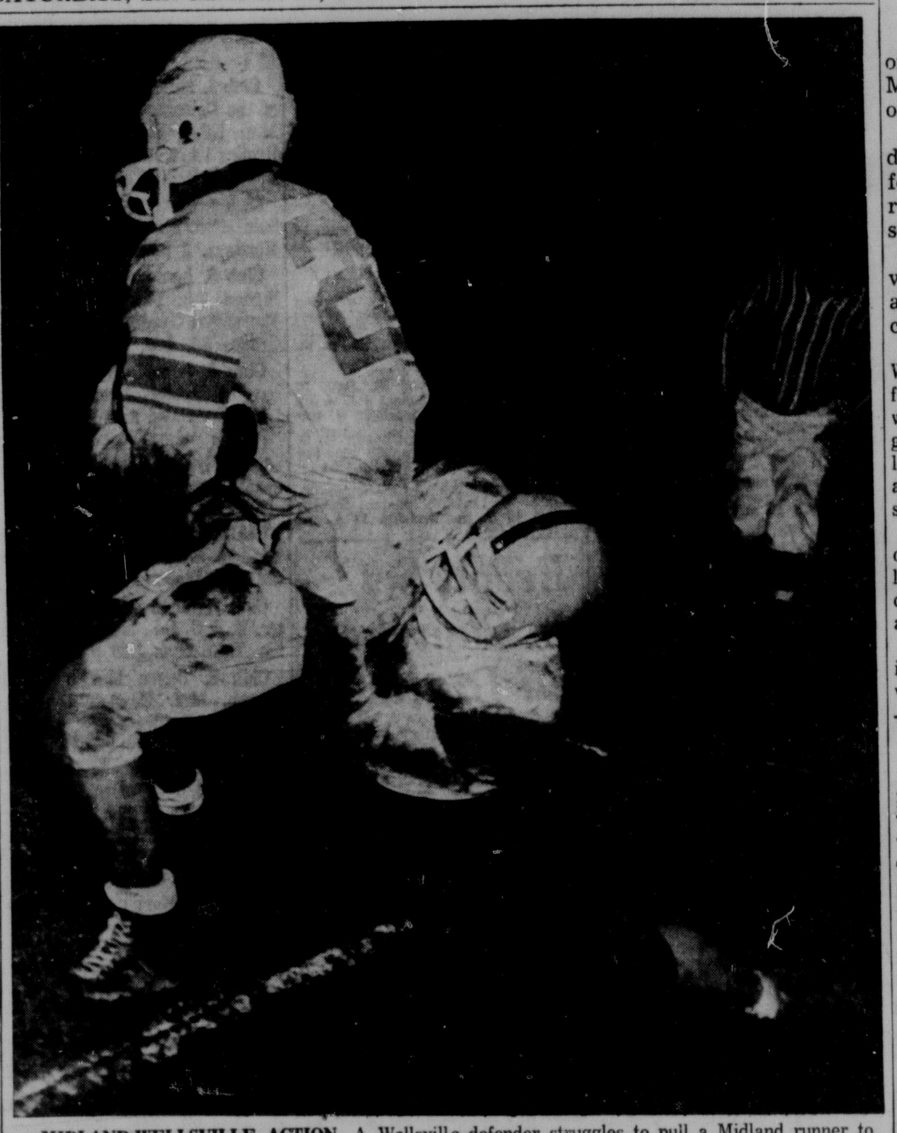
Eddie Lopat Named Manager Of Athletics

By JERRY GREEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

DETROIT (AP)—Eddie Lopat, 44, is succeeding Hank Bauer as manager of the Kansas City Athletics with his boss' prediction for a first division finish next season ringing in his ears.



MIDLAND-WELLSVILLE ACTION. A Wellsville defender struggles to pull a Midland runner to the turf in Friday night's action at Nicholson Stadium. The underdog Leopards shocked a crowd of 1,200 by uncorking a 35-12 upset for the initial victory of the season. The field was wet from yesterday's showers and the weather was plenty chilly, cutting into the expected turnout.

5 Leopard Backs Score; Visitors Take Over In Second Half

By CHUCK CRONIN
Review Sports Writer

Surprising just about everyone with an explosive offensive attack and an aggressive defense, underdog Midland scored three times through the air and twice on the ground to thump Wellsville, 35-12, Friday night.

The Leopards, spotting Wellsville a quick touchdown in the opening quarter, came roaring back to forge ahead on a long aerial and padded their lead rapidly as a chilled crowd of 1,200 looked on at Nicholson Stadium.

Wellsville, perhaps a wee bit overconfident after walloping Toronto last week, was out of contention as early as the third quarter as the Leopards proceeded to take charge of the penalty-marred battle.

The opening quarter found Wellsville moving a quick 33 yards for a touchdown and a 6-0 lead with 2:43 remaining, but the margin was erased quickly as Midland scored on a long pass play and moved ahead on the conversion.

A blocked punt early in the second quarter at the Wellsville 17 led to another Midland touchdown, and hoisted the Leopards ahead at halftime, 15-6.

If the game had a turning point, it was minutes later when Wellsvile moved to the Midland eight yard line and was held in check by two costly penalties for being offsides, as halftime arrived.

—:—

PROVIDING an indication of things to come in the second half was a 45-yard race down the sidelines from scrimmage by Midland's Mike Krivoshia a few plays after the kickoff.

After that it was all Midland, and Coach Charles Polce's yellow-clad boys tucked away their first victory in four games with a spirited effort.

Neither squad could be lauded much for finess, with penalties slowing the action badly in the second half. Twenty were charged in all — a dozen against Midland and eight against the losers.

WELLSVILLE'S defense was not nearly as strong as last week and the offensive attack would have been equally as disappointing except for hard running by veteran halfback Alvin Thompson and fullback Leo Pearson.

Pearson, 180-pounder, gained the bulk of Wellsville's yardage in 17 charges at the Midland line. He plowed through for the Tigers' first score in the opening quarter from one-foot out.

Quarterback Jim Reed tallied the other touchdown for Welsville on a 12-yard end run in the final quarter.

A NIFTY pass catch by halfback Rich Lake started Midland's touchdown parade at 11:08 of the second quarter. The throw by quarterback Don Miller was high and a little short, but Lake speared the ball over the outstretched arms of defender Dale Mobley of Wellsville at the 20, and went into the end zone untouched. On the conversion try, Miller fumbled the snap but moved from a kneeling position and picked his way through the Wellsville defense for two points.

Krivoshia and tackle Obrad Cvzetovich slammed through to block a Wellsville punt to set up Midland's next touchdown. The Leopards recovered at the Tiger 17, and moved to a 15-6 lead on Miller's one-yard sneak and Sam Zigerelli's perfect placement.

In the opening minutes of the third quarter, Krivoshia cut to the sidelines and went 45 yards from scrimmage as Midland moved out to a 21-6 lead. The placement try failed.

MIDLAND recovered a Wellsville fumble at the Leopard 44 and started another touchdown march that spanned the quarter break. With 11:23 left in the game, Miller passed to end Pete Cilli for the touchdown. On a fake placement, Zigerelli passed to Cilli for the two-point conversion and a 29-6 lead.

At this point, Midland's second-liners got into the action and Wellsville picked up a score quickly, aided by a 15-yard penalty for roughness. Reed scored to cut the lead to 29-12.

With less than two minutes left to play and substitutes used liberally by both teams, Midland struck for the final time on an 11-yard pass play from quarterback Norman Van Lier to end Gary Shannon. Wellsville blocked the placement.

The victory over Coach Ken Woods' eleven gives Midland six straight since 1942. The Tigers now stand at 1-3.

McPherson Tallies 3 For Lisbon

Quarterback Larry McPherson, 205-pound senior, ran over three touchdowns and tossed two conversion passes as Lisbon High polished off Poland, 28-14, Friday night at Lisbon.

Coach Bud Bucher's Blue Devils rebounded from a loss to Minerva last week to post their first Tri-County League victory, and third of the season.

McPherson scored touchdowns on runs of 11, 5 and 7 yards and halfback Dave Rose — the district's leading scorer — got another for Lisbon on a seven-yard run.

The Blue Devils managed two conversions, each coming on passes from big McPherson to halfback Tim Bucher.

Poland registered in the second quarter on a three-yard run by Stover, and in the fourth on an eight-yard run by Kraja. Mehl scored Poland's conversion on a pass.

Lawrence Paces Las Vegas Golf

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—Duff Lawrence, a surprise winner of the Nevada Open this year, led the way into the second round of the $30,000 Sahara Invitational golf tournament today.

Lawrence, 25, from suburban Los Angeles, knocked eight strokes off par with a 64 in the first round Friday, and led the field by three strokes.

Tied at 67 going into today's round were Frank Wharton, Mamaroneck, N.Y., Ron Letellier, Santa Monica, the current California open champion, and Larry Mawry, Bonita, Calif.

Closest in contention of the tournament name players was Billy Casper Jr., the general favorite. He was tied at 68 with Earl Stewart Jr., Fred Hawkins, Chuck Rotar and Dick Stranahan.

Rookie catcher Bob Rodgers of the Los Angeles Angels was a high school pitcher. He tossed three no-hitters.

ELHS Coach Given Victory Shower After Initial Win

Members of the East Liverpool Potter squad tossed Coach Bob Hedmond under a welcomed "victory shower" following its 26-6 victory over New Philadelphia Friday night.

Beaming over the win, Hedmond said "you know it always feels good to win that first one."

The Potter coach was disappointed over the penalties and he had a reason to be for it could have cost the Potters the game. East Liverpool was penalized 70 yards, with 65 being marked off in the second half.

—:—

"THOSE kids had it when the chips were down in the fourth quarter," Hedmond added.

He pointed out some of the stars of the game, but quickly added he was pleased with his squad and thought of the victory more as a team effort.

"Chuck Baker did a tremendous job for us tonight and so did Earl Olmstead taking Kraft's place in there." Hedmond also pointed out the defensive work of Scotty Musuraca, Bruck Burbick, Bob Mercer, Ron Echols and Dick Heddleston.

—:—

THE POTTERS came up with an able replacement for fullback Len Oliver, who suffered a sprained ankle. Senior Dick Heddleston replaced Oliver at fullback and turned in a superb job with his thrusts up the middle. He also handled his defensive assignment as corner man.

CHUCK BAKER
Leads Potters To First.

Hedmond explained the timeout which Scotty Musuraca called as New Philly was on the march near the end of the first half.

THE QUAKERS had moved to the Potter three with only 30 seconds left in the half. New Philly came out of the huddle very fast and Musuraca called time out. This of course stopped the clock. "At first I thought it was a bad call on Musuraca's part but then realized our defense wasn't organized and it was a good call for him to make at such a crucial time."

Anyway it worked. New Philly's Dale Tate only made it to the one on the next play and the half ended before Philly could get off another play. Who knows, the timeout call might have been what saved the game for the Potters.

While Hedmond was happy with the win, he pointed to New Philly's passing. "Their passing hurt us. They were getting between our linebackers and secondary. We stopped the long ones but they were getting too many short passes."

Columbiana Rolls Again; Minerva Is 15-0 Victim

COLUMBIANA — The mighty Columbiana Clippers recorded their second straight Tri-County victory and third win of the season with a 15-0 shutout over Minerva here Friday night before a packed house.

Coach George Fisher's powerful gridiron machine struck for touchdowns in the second and fourth periods and also added a safety in the final quarter.

Jim Ward tallied on a four-yard jaunt to get the Clippers rolling in the second period and Dale Murphy kicked the conversion.

Sophomore Eric Keck rambled 28 yards in the fourth period and Murphy was credited with a safety when he tackled a Minerva back behind the goal line.

Columbiana outrushed Minerva 213 yards to 58 and showed 11 first downs to four.

Yesterday's Stars

PITCHING—Bob Veale, Pirate left-hander recently recalled from Columbus, had a no-hitter going through 6 1-3 innings, finished with a three-hitter, striking out eight and walking four in 8-2 victory over Milwaukee.

HITTING—Charley James, Cardinals, singled in the winning run with two out in the 10th as St. Louis beat Los Angeles 3-2 and cut the Dodgers National League lead to 1½ games over San Francisco.

Wynn May Never Try Again For 300th Win

NEW YORK (AP)—Disappointed Early Wynn, foiled three times in quest of his 300th career victory, won't try again this season—perhaps never.

The 42-year-old right-hander of the Chicago White Sox left for Los Angeles today to attend a meeting of player representatives. He won't rejoin the team this season.

Wynn, who has won 299 games in a 22 years major league career stretching back to 1939, asked Manager Al Lopez before the start of Friday night's game with the New York Yankees for permission to leave the team whether he won or lost.

He lost.

The burley veteran, now 7-15 for the season, had a two-hitter and a 3-1 lead through six innings before the Yankee struck. Joe Pepitone tied it with a pinch, two-run homer in the seventh and the Yanks put it out of reach in the eighth.

Wynn, slumped in disappointment in the Chicago dressing room.

"I just don't know," old Gus said. "I just haven't made up my mind yet. I just don't know."

He tried to shrug off the loss in what may have been his last major league game, but he wasn't very convincing.

"Sure, I wanted to win it," he said. "I wanted it pretty bad. But it was just another homer, just another ball game."

Eddie Lopat Named Manager Of Athletics

By JERRY GREEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

DETROIT (AP)—Eddie Lopat, 44, is succeeding Hank Bauer as manager of the Kansas City Athletics with his boss' prediction for a first division finish next season ringing in his ears.

MIDLAND-WELLSVILLE ACTION. A Wellsville defender struggles to pull a Midland runner to the turf in Friday night's action at Nicholson Stadium. The underdog Leopards shocked a crowd of 1,200 by uncorking a 35-12 upset for the initial victory of the season. The field was wet from yesterday's showers and the weather was plenty chilly, cutting into the expected turnout.

Baker Praised For Performance

ELHS Coach Given Victory Shower After Initial Win

Members of the East Liverpool Potter squad tossed Coach Bob Hedmond under a welcomed "victory shower" following its 26-6 victory over New Philadelphia Friday night.

Beaming over the win, Hedmond said "you know it always feels good to win that first one."

The Potter coach was disappointed over the penalties and he had a reason to be for it could have cost the Potters the game. East Liverpool was penalized 70 yards, with 65 being marked off in the second half.

—:—

"THOSE kids had it when the chips were down in the fourth quarter," Hedmond added.

He pointed out some of the stars of the game, but quickly added he was pleased with his squad and thought of the victory more as a team effort.

"Chuck Baker did a tremendous job for us tonight and so did Earl Olmstead taking Kraft's place in there." Hedmond also pointed out the defensive work of Scotty Musuraca, Bruck Burbick, Bob Mercer, Ron Echols and Dick Heddleston.

—:—

THE POTTERS came up with an able replacement for fullback Len Oliver, who suffered a sprained ankle. Senior Dick Heddleston replaced Oliver at fullback and turned in a superb job with his thrusts up the middle. He also handled his defensive assignment as corner man.

CHUCK BAKER
Leads Potters To First.

Hedmond explained the timeout which Scotty Musuraca called as New Philly was on the march near the end of the first half.

THE QUAKERS had moved to the Potter three with only 30 seconds left in the half. New Philly came out of the huddle very fast and Musuraca called time out. This of course stopped the clock. "At first I thought it was a bad call on Musuraca's part but then realized our defense wasn't organized and it was a good call for him to make at such a crucial time."

Anyway it worked. New Philly's Dale Tate only made it to the one on the next play and the half ended before Philly could get off another play. Who knows, the timeout call might have been what saved the game for the Potters.

While Hedmond was happy with the win, he pointed to New Philly's passing. "Their passing hurt us. They were getting between our linebackers and secondary. We stopped the long ones but they were getting too many short passes."

Columbiana Rolls Again; Minerva Is 15-0 Victim

COLUMBIANA — The mighty Columbiana Clippers recorded their second straight Tri-County victory and third win of the season with a 15-0 shutout over Minerva here Friday night before a packed house.

Coach George Fisher's powerful gridiron machine struck for touchdowns in the second and fourth periods and also added a safety in the final quarter.

Jim Ward tallied on a four-yard jaunt to get the Clippers rolling in the second period and Dale Murphy kicked the conversion.

Sophomore Eric Keck rambled 28 yards in the fourth period and Murphy was credited with a safety when he tackled a Minerva back behind the goal line.

Columbiana outrushed Minerva 213 yards to 58 and showed 11 first downs to four.

5 Leopard Backs Score; Visitors Take Over In Second Half

By CHUCK CRONIN
Review Sports Writer

Surprising just about everyone with an explosive offensive attack and an aggressive defense, underdog Midland scored three times through the air and twice on the ground to thump Wellsville, 35-12, Friday night.

The Leopards, spotting Wellsville a quick touchdown in the opening quarter, came roaring back to forge ahead on a long aerial and padded their lead rapidly as a chilled crowd of 1,200 looked on at Nicholson Stadium.

Wellsville, perhaps a wee bit overconfident after walloping Toronto last week, was out of contention as early as the third quarter as the Leopards proceeded to take charge of the penalty-marred battle.

The opening quarter found Wellsville moving a quick 33 yards for a touchdown and a 6-0 lead with 2:43 remaining, but the margin was erased quickly as Midland scored on a long pass play and moved ahead on the conversion.

A blocked punt early in the second quarter at the Wellsville 17 led to another Midland touchdown, and hoisted the Leopards ahead at halftime, 15-6.

If the game had a turning point, it was minutes later when Wellsvile moved to the Midland eight yard line and was held in check by two costly penalties for being offsides, as halftime arrived.

—:—

PROVIDING an indication of things to come in the second half was a 45-yard race down the sidelines from scrimmage by Midland's Mike Krivoshia a few plays after the kickoff.

After that it was all Midland, and Coach Charles Polce's yellow-clad boys tucked away their first victory in four games with a spirited effort.

Neither squad could be lauded much for finess, with penalties slowing the action badly in the second half. Twenty were charged in all — a dozen against Midland and eight against the losers.

WELLSVILLE'S defense was not nearly as strong as last week and the offensive attack would have been equally as disappointing except for hard running by veteran halfback Alvin Thompson and fullback Leo Pearson.

Pearson, 180-pounder, gained the bulk of Wellsville's yardage in 17 charges at the Midland line. He plowed through for the Tigers' first score in the opening quarter from one-foot out.

Quarterback Jim Reed tallied the other touchdown for Wellsville on a 12-yard end run in the final quarter.

A NIFTY pass catch by halfback Rich Lake started Midland's touchdown parade at 11:08 of the second quarter. The throw by quarterback Don Miller was high and a little short, but Lake speared the ball over the outstretched arms of defender Dale Mobley of Wellsville at the 20, and went into the end zone untouched. On the conversion try, Miller fumbled the snap but moved from a kneeling position and picked his way through the Wellsville defense for two points.

Krivoshia and tackle Obrad Cvzetovich slammed through to block a Wellsville punt to set up Midland's next touchdown. The Leopards recovered at the Tiger 17, and moved to a 15-6 lead on Miller's one-yard sneak and Sam Zigerelli's perfect placement.

In the opening minutes of the third quarter, Krivoshia cut to the sidelines and went 45 yards from scrimmage as Midland moved out to a 21-6 lead. The placement try failed.

MIDLAND recovered a Wellsville fumble at the Leopard 44 and started another touchdown march that spanned the quarter break. With 11:23 left in the game, Miller passed to end Pete Cilli for the touchdown. On a fake placement, Zigerelli passed to Cilli for the two-point conversion and a 29-6 lead.

At this point, Midland's second-liners got into the action and Wellsville picked up a score quickly, aided by a 15-yard penalty for roughness. Reed scored to cut the lead to 29-12.

With less than two minutes left to play and substitutes used liberally by both teams, Midland struck for the final time on an 11-yard pass play from quarterback Norman Van Lier to end Gary Shannon. Wellsville blocked the placement.

The victory over Coach Ken Woods' eleven gives Midland six straight since 1942. The Tigers now stand at 1-3.

McPherson Tallies 3 For Lisbon

Quarterback Larry McPherson, 205-pound senior, ran over three touchdowns and tossed two conversion passes as Lisbon High polished off Poland, 28-14, Friday night at Lisbon.

Coach Bud Bucher's Blue Devils rebounded from a loss to Minerva last week to post their first Tri-County League victory, and third of the season.

McPherson scored touchdowns on runs of 11, 5 and 7 yards and halfback Dave Rose — the district's leading scorer — got another for Lisbon on a seven-yard run.

The Blue Devils managed two conversions, each coming on passes from big McPherson to halfback Tim Bucher.

Poland registered in the second quarter on a three-yard run by Stover, and in the fourth on an eight-yard run by Kraja. Mehl scored Poland's conversion on a pass.

Lawrence Paces Las Vegas Golf

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—Duff Lawrence, a surprise winner of the Nevada Open this year, led the way into the second round of the $30,000 Sahara Invitational golf tournament today.

Lawrence, 25, from suburban Los Angeles, knocked eight strokes off par with a 64 in the first round Friday, and led the field by three strokes.

Tied at 67 going into today's round were Frank Wharton, Mamaroneck, N.Y., Ron Letellier, Santa Monica, the current California open champion, and Larry Mawry, Bonita, Calif.

Closest in contention of the tournament name players was Billy Casper Jr., the general favorite. He was tied at 68 with Earl Stewart Jr., Fred Hawkins, Chuck Rotar and Dick Stranahan.

Rookie catcher Bob Rodgers of the Los Angeles Angels was a high school pitcher. He tossed three no-hitters.

Wynn May Never Try Again For 300th Win

NEW YORK (AP)—Disappointed Early Wynn, foiled three times in quest of his 300th career victory, won't try again this season —perhaps never.

The 42-year-old right-hander of the Chicago White Sox left for Los Angeles today to attend a meeting of player representatives. He won't rejoin the team this season.

Wynn, who has won 299 games in a 22 years major league career stretching back to 1939, asked Manager Al Lopez before the start of Friday night's game with the New York Yankees for permission to leave the team whether he won or lost.

He lost.

The burley veteran, now 7-15 for the season, had a two-hitter and a 3-1 lead through six innings before the Yankee struck. Joe Pepitone tied it with a pinch, two-run homer in the seventh and the Yanks put it out of reach in the eighth.

Wynn, slumped in disappointment in the Chicago dressing room.

"I just don't know," old Gus said. "I just haven't made up my mind yet. I just don't know."

He tried to shrug off the loss in what may have been his last major league game, but he wasn't very convincing.

"Sure, I wanted to win it," he said. "I wanted it pretty bad. But it was just another homer, just another ball game."

Myers' Long Run Sparks Chester's 12-0 Win At Newell

Dodgers Blow Another Chance To Clinch Pennant Tie

Panther Halfback Scores Both TD's

An 88-yard run in the third quarter and a two-yard plunge in the final stanza, both by Chester's Bob Myers, gave Chester a 12-0 victory over the Vikings at Newell's Memorial Field Friday night.

On the first play of the second half, after Chester had absorbed a 15-yard penalty that had placed them on their own 12-yard line, the Panthers executed a perfect trap play that sprang halfback Bob Myers loose for an 88-yard TD jaunt.

In the fourth quarter, the Panthers added an insurance touchdown when they drove to the Newell five for a first and ten. The Vikings held for three downs, but on the fourth attempt Myers sliced through to paydirt from the two.

Coach Pete Horoszko's Viking attack was featured by two long drives, both of which bogged down deep in Chester territory. After returning the opening kickoff to their own 37 the Vikings started a series of plays that carried to the Chester five where the Panthers managed to stave off the threat and take over on downs. The other Newell drive started on the Newell 32 and carried to the Chester eight where again the Panthers averted the threat.

Newell controlled the ball through a large part of the game but could not dent the goal line.

The Chester attack was sparked by the running of Kelse Johnson and Gary Mayhew as well as by that of Myers. Wiersbicki and Monroe stood out in the running department on the Viking side.

Quarterback Chuck Mullen was injured late in the first half and was taken to City Hospital where he was X-rayed and released.

Newell may see their first win of the season next week when they take on South Side at Newell as part of the Viking homecoming festivities.

The Chester Panthers will host Springfield Local next week as they seek their fourth win of the season against one loss.

The loss sent Newell's losing streak to 22 straight.

Palestine Beaten 27-20 By Leetonia

EAST PALESTINE — Leetonia finally won out in an exchange of fumbles on a muddy gridiron to post a 27-20 victory over East Palestine here Friday night.

Leetonia scored first in the opening period after taking over on the Bulldog nine following a bad pass from center. Mel Van Fossan crashed over from the one and Paul Conrad place kicked the extra point for a 7-0 lead with the game only two minutes old.

East Palestine bounced back after Ray Harper intercepted a Leetonia pass. Dave Smith scored from the Bulldogs on a four-yard jaunt. The kick for the conversion failed.

Leetonia broke the game open with two second period touchdowns. Vignon tallied from five yards out and Leetonia took advantage of an East Palestine fumble to score the other when Conrad found running room from two yards away.

The Bulldogs attempted to get back into the game before the first half ended but fumbled on the Leetonia one when the gun sounded.

East Palestine bounced back for a third period score when Don Herriott scored on a four-yard dash.

In the fourth quarter, Leetonia capped its scoring when Vignon tallied his second TD of the night from the three following a 64-yard drive.

Substitute Bill Istnick scored East Palestine's last touchdown on a 35-yard sprint.

Both teams are now 1-1 in the Tri-County and 2-2 for the season.

Packers, Bears To Clash Sunday For 87th Time

By JACK CLARY
Associated Press Sports Writer

The National Football league's oldest rivalry—and one of its biggest pairings for Sunday—will help decide the shape of things in the Western Conference when the defending champion Green Bay Packers and Chicago Bears meet for the 87th time.

Both teams are 2-0, and are in a four-way tie for the top spot in the West with Detroit and Baltimore, which meet in Baltimore Sunday. Green Bay will be host for this one, and trails in the storied series 50-30-6.

In other NFL action, Washington, the surprise Eastern Conference leader with a 1-0-1 mark, opens its home season against the St. Louis Cards (1-1), New York and Pittsburgh match 1-1 records in Pittsburgh, Cleveland (1-1) is at Philadelphia (0-2), Dallas (0-1-1) travels to Los Angeles (0-2) and two winless (0-2) clubs, Minnesota and San Francisco, meet in San Francisco.

In the American Football League, Denver is at New York San Diego at Oakland and Buffalo at Dallas. Houston and Boston are not scheduled.

The Packers are physically sound, and perhaps stronger than at this time last year when they began their march to the conference crown and league title. Their defense allowed St. Louis only 16 yards rushing last week, while the offense again has Paul Hornung, NFL scoring leader with 39 points, and fullback Jim Taylor, the league's No. 2 rusher with 197 yards.

The Bears are battered physically. Halfback Charlie Bivins and all-league linebacker Bill George are out, while fullback Rick Casares, halfback Willie Galimore, defensive back J. C. Caroline and offensive tackle Fred Williams are hurting and due for only limited action. Roger LeClerc will replace George, rookie Ronnie Bull will fill in for Bivins and Joe Marconi will replace Casares. The Bears are the league's top rushing team, but will also go against the No. 2 rushing defense.

The Lions will move their big forward wall against Colt quarterback Johnny Unitas and his improving rushing offense, led by fullback Mark Smolinski. The Lions' offense has been ignited by the passing (72 per cent completion average) of Milt Plum, who has thrown for seven touchdowns, and has yet to be intercepted.

The Redskins, after a 17-16 stunner over Cleveland last week, will be at full strength for the Cardinals in the D.C. Stadium home opener. Halfback Biliy Barnes is off the injured list, and is expected to add some more ground support for Norm Snead's passing and the exceptional running of Bobby Mitchell.

Louisville Leading

ATLANTA (AP) — The Louisville Colonels boasted a 2-1 lead in the Junior World Series as they headed for their home field for tonight's fourth baseball game in the best-of-seven series with the Atlanta Crackers.

Yanks Foil Wynn's Bid For 300th

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Los Angeles Dodgers, who were supposed to have things all locked up last Monday, suddenly have their backs to the wall, time running out and the pressure mounting hourly.

It was Monday that the Dodgers held a four-game lead and an apparent lock on the National League pennant.

Since then, however, Walt Alston's suddenly faltering heroes have lost four of five, San Francisco has grabbed three of four and the difference is only 1½ games.

Two nights in a row now the Dodgers have blown a chance to clinch at least a tie for the No. 1 spot. All they had to do was win. Each time they lost.

Friday night the margin was 3-2 in 10 innings. San Francisco was rained out in its game with Houston and faces a twin bill with the Colts today and a final game Sunday.

Los Angeles has two left, both against the tough Cards.

The situation remains the same: A Dodger victory or a Giant loss gives the Dodgers at least a share of the top spot. Any combination of Dodger victories and Giant losses totalling two gives the pennant to the Dodgers.

For San Francisco to win, it would take three Giant victories and two Dodger losses. For the Giants to tie, they must win at least two, and the Dodgers lose two.

Charley James was the chief tormentor of the stricken Dodgers Friday, driving in the winning run with a two-out single in the 10th off Ron Perranoski. It was the eighth loss in 11 games for Los Angeles.

In the American League, the champion New York Yankees came from behind in the seventh inning and beat the Chicago White Sox and 42-year-old Early Wynn 7-3, spoiling Wynn's third bid for his 300th career victory.

It may have been the last try ever for the veteran righthander, who left the club to attend a player representative meeting and will not pitch again this season. He said he has not yet decided whether to play again next year.

In the other games, Minnesota clinched at least a tie for second place in the American League with an 11-5 rout of Baltimore, Detroit whipped Kansas City 7-3, the Chicago Cubs beat New York's Mets 3-2, Pittsburgh stopped Milwaukee 8-2, and Cincinnati took Philadelphia 7-3.

The Los Angeles at Cleveland doubleheader was postponed because of rain. Boston and Washington were not scheduled.

Wynn, seeking to become the 14th major leaguer to reach the 300 mark, had a two-hitter and a 3-1 lead through 6 2-3 innings. Then Clete Boyer doubled and Joe Pepitone hit a pinch hit homer. Four more crossed after two were out in the eighth, three on Dale Long's homer.

Salem Edges Farrell, 18-13

Salem High rallied for a touchdown in the closing seconds to come from behind and edge Farrel, 18-13, Friday night at Salem.

The Quakers continued unbeaten in four games and gained revenge for a 7-6 reversal of last year. The loss was the first in four games for the Night Riders.

Salem went ahead 6-0 in the opening quarter when fullback Bob Owens ran three yards. Farrell tallied in the second quarter on a 79 yard run by fullback George Thomas, and the conversion kick by Fred Somerset gave Farrell a 7-6 halftime lead.

The fourth period found Salem scoring twice and Farrell once.

Halfback Dave Capel went one yard to climax a 56 yard drive which consumed nine minutes and 17 plays for Salem. Farrell came right back and went 80 yards in 15 plays to pull ahead, 13-12, on Michael Misik's one-yard buck.

Salem then staged a thrilling rally with 3:30 left, and Owens scored from two yards out with 46 seconds left in the game for an 18-13 victory.

'Bama Rolls Past Tulane By 44-To-6

NEW ORLEANS, La., (AP)—Alabama, looking every bit as mean as last year's national champions, holds a tighter grip on its top-ranking status today after a dazzling 44-6 offensive display Friday night against Tulane.

The Crimson Tide showed a brilliant field general in 19-year-old sophomore Joe Namath.

Massillon Walloped By Alliance, 46-To-0

ALLIANCE, Ohio (AP) — The Alliance Aviators crushed the Massillon Tigers 46 - 0 Friday night, handing the perennial state scholastic football champions their worst defeat since 1931. In that year Steubenville beat Massillon 68-0.

In case anyone has any ideas about stopping Alabama by stopping Namath, backing him is a well-oiled ground attack led by junior fullback Eddie Versprille and a rough, hard-charging line.

But Namath, a 6-foot-1, 184-pound aerial whiz from Beaver Falls, Pa., is 'Bama's offensive sparkplug. And he proved in his second game he can move his club—rated first in this week's Associated Press poll—with the coolness of a veteran.

His varied choice of plays kept the Tulane line off balance all night. His passing demonstrated an uncanny eye for spotting open receivers, and his fakes were carried off with the aplomb of a magician.

Namath hit on 6 of 7 passes for 98 yards—giving him a two-game total of 13 of 21 aerials for 272 yards.

Versprille, a shifty-running 187-pounder from Norfolk, Va., piled up 97 yards on 13 carries—high for the game. In all, the Tide piled up 202 yards rushing. Halfback Butch Wilson lugged the pigskin over the goal line twice on bursts of 7 and 1 yards.

Halfback Cotton Clark, a talented receiver, pulled in two touchdown passes from Namath and scored a third TD on an 11-yard dash. Namath plunged a yard for another touchdown to wrap up Alabama's scoring.

Ohio State, which lost its preseason No. 1 spot in the AP poll to Alabama this week, opens operations today against North Carolina. The Buckeyes are heavy favorites.

The only other member of the top 10 that has not played yet is Michigan State, rated No. 6 in the nation and a threat to Ohio State in the Big Ten race. The Spartans were scheduled to battle Stanford in Palo Alto, Calif.

In the NCAA television game of the week, Notre Dame and Oklahoma lined up against each other at Norman, Okla., with a sellout crowd of more than 61,000 expected.

Third-ranked Texas, the overwhelming choice to ride to the Southwest Conference title, plays a night game at Texas Tech, while fourth rated Penn State was host to the Air Force Academy.

Louisiana State, No. 5, has a night date with Rice, and Mississippi, No. 7, goes against Kentucky, also in a nighter.

Georgia Tech, No. 8, visits Florida. Southern California, No. 9, is the favorite over Southern Methodist in a night game and Missouri, No. 10, will have to prove itself against Minnesota.

Army crossed paths with Syracuse in New York, while Duke, upset by Southern Cal last week, hoped to rebound against South Carolina. Washington, a Big Six contender, entertains Illinois after its 7-7 tie with Purdue last week.

Burskey's 3 TDs Give Raiders' 19-0 Victory

Halfback Jim Burskey scored three touchdowns to lead New Cumberland to a 19-0 victory over Cameron Friday night at Cameron.

The win was the second in four games for Coach John Kuzio's Blue Raiders, who had lost to Weirton Madonna, 7-0, last week.

Burskey opened the scoring with a 32-yard touchdown run on a fourth down play in the first period. Allen Katzenmeyer was held short on his run for the conversion.

In the same quarter, Burskey got loose again, this time for 20 yards after a Cameron march had stalled. The placement try failed but the Blue Raiders had a 12-0 lead.

The squads battled through scoreless second and third quarters, with Cameron never penetrating past New Cumberland's 25 yard line.

Burskey intercepted a Cameron pass and raced 35 yards to the one yard line in the fourth period, and tallied on the next play over the middle. Katzenmeyer booted the conversion.

The Blue Raiders rolled up 338 yards in rushing and passing to 217 by Cameron. New Cumberland led in first downs, 18 to 12.

Fernandez Eyes Title Match If He Whips Scott

By BOB MYERS
Associated Press Sports Writer

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—Fight Promoter Mel Greb has disclosed that welterweight challenger Jorge Fernandez may land a title match with champion Emile Griffith if he wins impressively tonight over Charley Scott in their nationally televised match.

Greb said the Griffith camp in New York has tentatively agreed to set a fight and that a Dec. 8 date is open. There is provision, however, that Griffith would not be interested in fighting Fernandez if he decided to step up in weight and challenge the winner of the Gene Fullmer-Dick Tiger middleweight title bout in San Francisco Oct. 16.

The San Francisco Giants and Los Angeles Dodgers divided their regularly scheduled 18 National League games during 1962.

Myers' Long Run Sparks Chester's 12-0 Win At Newell

Dodgers Blow Another Chance To Clinch Pennant Tie

Panther Halfback Scores Both TD's

An 88-yard run in the third quarter and a two-yard plunge in the final stanza, both by Chester's Bob Myers, gave Chester a 12-0 victory over the Vikings at Newell's Memorial Field Friday night.

On the first play of the second half, after Chester had absorbed a 15-yard penalty that had placed them on their own 12-yard line, the Panthers executed a perfect trap play that sprang halfback Bob Myers loose for an 88-yard TD jaunt.

In the fourth quarter, the Panthers added an insurance touchdown when they drove to the Newell five for a first and ten. The Vikings held for three downs, but on the fourth attempt Myers sliced through to paydirt from the two.

Coach Pete Horoszko's Viking attack was featured by two long drives, both of which bogged down deep in Chester territory. After returning the opening kickoff to their own 37 the Vikings started a series of plays that carried to the Chester five where the Panthers managed to stave off the threat and take over on downs. The other Newell drive started on the Newell 32 and carried to the Chester eight where again the Panthers averted the threat.

Newell controlled the ball through a large part of the game but could not dent the goal line.

The Chester attack was sparked by the running of Kelse Johnson and Gary Mayhew as well as by that of Myers. Wiersbicki and Monroe stood out in the running department on the Viking side.

Quarterback Chuck Mullen was injured late in the first half and was taken to City Hospital where he was X-rayed and released.

Newell may see their first win of the season next week when they take on South Side at Newell as part of the Viking homecoming festivities.

The Chester Panthers will host Springfield Local next week as they seek their fourth win of the season against one loss.

The loss sent Newell's losing streak to 22 straight.

Palestine Beaten 27-20 By Leetonia

EAST PALESTINE — Leetonia finally won out in an exchange of fumbles on a muddy gridiron to post a 27-20 victory over East Palestine here Friday night.

Leetonia scored first in the opening period after taking over on the Bulldog nine following a bad pass from center. Mel Van Fossan crashed over from the one and Paul Conrad place kicked the extra point for a 7-0 lead with the game only two minutes old.

East Palestine bounced back after Ray Harper intercepted a Leetonia pass. Dave Smith scored from the Bulldogs on a four-yard jaunt. The kick for the conversion failed.

Leetonia broke the game open with two second period touchdowns. Vignon tallied from five yards out and Leetonia took advantage of an East Palestine fumble to score the other when Conrad found running room from two yards away.

The Bulldogs attempted to get back into the game before the first half ended but fumbled on the Leetonia one when the gun sounded.

East Palestine bounced back for a third period score when Don Herriott scored on a four-yard dash.

In the fourth quarter, Leetonia capped its scoring when Vignon tallied his second TD of the night from the three following a 64-yard drive.

Substitute Bill Istnick scored East Palestine's last touchdown on a 35-yard sprint.

Both teams are now 1-1 in the Tri-County and 2-2 for the season.

Packers, Bears To Clash Sunday For 87th Time

By JACK CLARY
Associated Press Sports Writer

The National Football league's oldest rivalry—and one of its biggest pairings for Sunday—will help decide the shape of things in the Western Conference when the defending champion Green Bay Packers and Chicago Bears meet for the 87th time.

Both teams are 2-0, and are in a four-way tie for the top spot in the West with Detroit and Baltimore, which meet in Baltimore Sunday. Green Bay will be host for this one, and trails in the storied series 50-30-6.

In other NFL action, Washington, the surprise Eastern Conference leader with a 1-0-1 mark, opens its home season against the St. Louis Cards (1-1), New York and Pittsburgh match 1-1 records in Pittsburgh, Cleveland (1-1) is at Philadelphia (0-2), Dallas (0-1-1) travels to Los Angeles (0-2) and two winless (0-2) clubs, Minnesota and San Francisco, meet in San Francisco.

In the American Football League, Denver is at New York San Diego at Oakland and Buffalo at Dallas. Houston and Boston are not scheduled.

The Packers are physically sound, and perhaps stronger than at this time last year when they began their march to the conference crown and league title. Their defense allowed St. Louis only 16 yards rushing last week, while the offense again has Paul Hornung, NFL scoring leader with 39 points, and fullback Jim Taylor, the league's No. 2 rusher with 197 yards.

The Bears are battered physically. Halfback Charlie Bivins and all-league linebacker Bill George are out, while fullback Rick Casares, halfback Willie Galimore, defensive back J. C. Caroline and offensive tackle Fred Williams are hurting and due for only limited action. Roger LeClerc will replace George, rookie Ronnie Bull will fill in for Bivins and Joe Marconi will replace Casares. The Bears are the league's top rushing team, but will also go against the No. 2 rushing defense.

The Lions will move their big forward wall against Colt quarterback Johnny Unitas and his improving rushing offense, led by fullback Mark Smolinski. The Lions' offense has been ignited by the passing (72 per cent completion average) of Milt Plum, who has thrown for seven touchdowns, and has yet to be intercepted.

The Redskins, after a 17-16 stunner over Cleveland last week, will be at full strength for the Cardinals in the D.C. Stadium home opener. Halfback Billy Barnes is off the injured list, and is expected to add some more ground support for Norm Snead's passing and the exceptional running of Bobby Mitchell.

Louisville Leading

ATLANTA (AP) — The Louisville Colonels boasted a 2-1 lead in the Junior World Series as they headed for their home field for tonight's fourth baseball game in the best-of-seven series with the Atlanta Crackers.

Yanks Foil Wynn's Bid For 300th

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Los Angeles Dodgers, who were supposed to have things all locked up last Monday, suddenly have their backs to the wall, time running out and the pressure mounting hourly.

It was Monday that the Dodgers held a four-game lead and an apparent lock on the National League pennant.

Since then, however, Walt Alston's suddenly faltering heroes have lost four of five, San Francisco has grabbed three of four and the difference is only 1½ games.

Two nights in a row now the Dodgers have blown a chance to clinch at least a tie for the No. 1 spot. All they had to do was win. Each time they lost.

Friday night the margin was 3-2 in 10 innings. San Francisco was rained out in its game with Houston and faces a twin bill with the Colts today and a final game Sunday.

Los Angeles has two left, both against the tough Cards.

The situation remains the same: A Dodger victory or a Giant loss gives the Dodgers at least a share of the top spot. Any combination of Dodger victories and Giant losses totalling two gives the pennant to the Dodgers.

For San Francisco to win. it would take three Giant victories and two Dodger losses. For the Giants to tie, they must win at least two, and the Dodgers lose two.

Charley James was the chief tormentor of the stricken Dodgers Friday, driving in the winning run with a two-out single in the 10th off Ron Perranoski. It was the eighth loss in 11 games for Los Angeles.

In the American League, the champion New York Yankees came from behind in the seventh inning and beat the Chicago White Sox and 42-year-old Early Wynn 7-3, spoiling Wynn's third bid for his 300th career victory.

It may have been the last try ever for the veteran righthander, who left the club to attend a player representative meeting and will not pitch again this season. He said he has not yet decided whether to play again next year.

In the other games, Minnesota clinched at least a tie for second place in the American League with an 11-5 rout of Baltimore, Detroit whipped Kansas City 7-3, the Chicago Cubs beat New York's Mets 3-2, Pittsburgh stopped Milwaukee 8-2, and Cincinnati took Philadelphia 7-3.

The Los Angeles at Cleveland doubleheader was postponed because of rain. Boston and Washington were not scheduled.

Wynn, seeking to become the 14th major leaguer to reach the 300 mark, had a two-hitter and a 3-1 lead through 6 2-3 innings. Then Clete Boyer doubled and Joe Pepitone hit a pinch hit homer. Four more crossed after two were out in the eighth, three on Dale Long's homer.

Salem Edges Farrell, 18-13

Salem High rallied for a touchdown in the closing seconds to come from behind and edge Farrel, 18-13, Friday night at Salem.

The Quakers continued unbeaten in four games and gained revenge for a 7-6 reversal of last year. The loss was the first in four games for the Night Riders.

Salem went ahead 6-0 in the opening quarter when fullback Bob Owens ran three yards. Farrell tallied in the second quarter on a 79 yard run by fullback George Thomas, and the conversion kick by Fred Somerset gave Farrell a 7-6 halftime lead.

The fourth period found Salem scoring twice and Farrell once.

Halfback Dave Capel went one yard to climax a 56 yard drive which consumed nine minutes and 17 plays for Salem. Farrell came right back and went 80 yards in 15 plays to pull ahead, 13-12, on Michael Misik's one-yard buck.

Salem then staged a thrilling rally with 3:30 left, and Owens scored from two yards out with 46 seconds left in the game for an 18-13 victory.

'Bama Rolls Past Tulane By 44-To-6

NEW ORLEANS, La., (AP)—Alabama, looking every bit as mean as last year's national champions, holds a tighter grip on its top-ranking status today after a dazzling 44-6 offensive display Friday night against Tulane.

The Crimson Tide showed a brilliant field general in 19-year-old sophomore Joe Namath.

Massillon Walloped By Alliance, 46-To-0

ALLIANCE, Ohio (AP) — The Alliance Aviators crushed the Massillon Tigers 46 - 0 Friday night, handing the perennial state scholastic football champions their worst defeat since 1931. In that year Steubenville beat Massillon 68-0.

In case anyone has any ideas about stopping Alabama by stopping Namath, backing him is a well-oiled ground attack led by junior fullback Eddie Versprille and a rough, hard-charging line.

But Namath, a 6-foot-1, 184-pound aerial whiz from Beaver Falls, Pa., is 'Bama's offensive sparkplug. And he proved in his second game he can move his club—rated first in this week's Associated Press poll—with the coolness of a veteran.

His varied choice of plays kept the Tulane line off balance all night. His passing demonstrated an uncanny eye for spotting open receivers, and his fakes were carried off with the aplomb of a magician.

Namath hit on 6 of 7 passes for 98 yards—giving him a two-game total of 15 of 21 aerials for 272 yards.

Versprille, a shifty-running 187-pounder from Norfolk, Va., piled up 97 yards on 13 carries—high for the game. In all, the Tide piled up 202 yards rushing. Halfback Butch Wilson lugged the pigskin over the goal line twice on bursts of 7 and 1 yards.

Halfback Cotton Clark, a talented receiver, pulled in two touchdown passes from Namath and scored a third TD on an 11-yard dash. Namath plunged a yard for another touchdown to wrap up Alabama's scoring.

Ohio State, which lost its preseason No. 1 spot in the AP poll to Alabama this week, opens operations today against North Carolina. The Buckeyes are heavy favorites.

The only other member of the top 10 that has not played yet is Michigan State, rated No. 6 in the nation and a threat to Ohio State in the Big Ten race. The Spartans were scheduled to battle Stanford in Palo Alto, Calif.

In the NCAA television game of the week, Notre Dame and Oklahoma lined up against each other at Norman, Okla., with a sellout crowd of more than 61,000 expected.

Third-ranked Texas, the overwhelming choice to ride to the Southwest Conference title, plays a night game at Texas Tech, while fourth rated Penn State was host to the Air Force Academy.

Louisiana State, No. 5, has a night date with Rice, and Mississippi, No. 7, goes against Kentucky, also in a nighter.

Georgia Tech, No. 8, visits Florida. Southern California, No. 9, is the favorite over Southern Methodist in a night game and Missouri, No. 10, will have to prove itself against Minnesota.

Army crossed paths with Syracuse in New York, while Duke, upset by Southern Cal last week, hoped to rebound against South Carolina. Washington, a Big Six contender, entertains Illinois after its 7-7 tie with Purdue last week.

ROME — Guilio Rinaldi, 174, Italy, outpointed Chic Calderwood, 175, Scotland, 15 (for vacant European light heavyweight championship).

Burskey's 3 TDs Give Raiders' 19-0 Victory

Halfback Jim Burskey scored three touchdowns to lead New Cumberland to a 19-0 victory over Cameron Friday night at Cameron.

The win was the second in four games for Coach John Kuzio's Blue Raiders, who had lost to Weirton Madonna, 7-0, last week.

Burskey opened the scoring with a 32-yard touchdown run on a fourth down play in the first period. Allen Katzenmeyer was held short on his run for the conversion.

In the same quarter, Burskey got loose again, this time for 20 yards after a Cameron march had stalled. The placement try failed but the Blue Raiders had a 12-0 lead.

The squads battled through scoreless second and third quarters, with Cameron never penetrating past New Cumberland's 25 yard line.

Burskey intercepted a Cameron pass and raced 35 yards to the one yard line in the fourth period, and tallied on the next play over the middle. Katzenmeyer booted the conversion.

The Blue Raiders rolled up 338 yards in rushing and passing to 217 by Cameron. New Cumberland led in first downs, 18 to 12.

Fernandez Eyes Title Match If He Whips Scott

By BOB MYERS
Associated Press Sports Writer

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—Fight Promoter Mel Greb has disclosed that welterweight challenger Jorge Fernandez may land a title match with champion Emile Griffith if he wins impressively tonight over Charley Scott in their nationally televised match.

Greb said the Griffith camp in New York has tentatively agreed to set a fight and that a Dec. 8 date is open. There is provision, however, that Griffith would not be interested in fighting Fernandez if he decided to step up in weight and challenge the winner of the Gene Fullmer-Dick Tiger middleweight title bout in San Francisco Oct. 16.

The San Francisco Giants and Los Angeles Dodgers divided their regularly scheduled 18 National League games during 1962.

County Fire Regulations Start Monday

The district office of the Ohio Division of Forestry at New Philadelphia said the fall forest fire season begins Monday with 12 of Columbiana County's 18 townships designated under the regulations.

The fire wardens for the townships were announced for handling permits to start fires outdoors.

Abundant summer rains have produced a lush growth of vegetation and the first frost will convert the summer's growth into a highly inflammable fuel.

All residents are urged to use extreme caution with fires kindled out-of-doors.

In townships of the county included in the Division of Forestry's organized forest fire protection area, a permit is required for kindling any fire in the open outside of incorporated towns and villages during the months of October, November, March, April and May. Permits may be obtained from the local forest fire wardens.

Townships included in the organized forest fire protection area and the forest fire wardens for each are:

How Can I?

By ANNE ASHLEY

Q. What is a formula for a good "homemade" ink eradicator?

A. Whip up a solution of one part of chlorinated laundry bleach and 10 parts of water. Keep this in an old iodine or mercurochrome bottle with a rubber stopper to withstand the destructive effect of the bleach, and with a glass rod as an applicator. Use it along with a blotter, just as with commercial eradicator — and don't, of course, expect this to work on typewriter ink.

Q. What can I do when the glaze begins to wear off chintz, as it does after a few washings?

A. This can be restored professionally. But you can produce a pretty slick glaze yourself by dipping the chintz into a thin solution of clear starch to which a small amount of wax has been added. Use paraffin or candle wax, and stir it thoroughly into the hot starch solution.

Q. When re-upholstering furniture, how can I prevent scratches and mars on the furniture from my tack hammer?

A. A strip of adhesive tape wrapped over the head of your hammer will go a long way towards preventing this.

Q. How can I make a hurry-up job of preparing some gelatin?

A. Mix as directed on the package, then take a tray of ice cubes, put into a plastic bag, and drop the bag into the gelatin and swish for a few minutes. The gelatin will harden very quickly.

Q. How can I remedy a faulty shower head that sprays water over the shower curtain and onto my bathroom floor and walls?

A. Cut out the center of a plastic bowl cover, slip this over the shower head, and it will direct the spurting water into a mainstream.

Junior Editors Quiz on BIRDS

QUESTION: Where do birds go at night?

ANSWER: As you study birds you are certain to notice how active they are, hopping, flying, watching out for enemies, grabbing insects for food. The fast pace at which they live means that they are tired at night, especially in their wing muscles, and need plenty of rest to prepare for the next day. The boy who sent us this interesting question added that he couldn't seem to find any birds sleeping at night. This is because it is dangerous for them to go to sleep unless they are well hidden. Birds are expert at concealing themselves and that's why we don't see them at night. Many sleep standing on the twigs of trees, high up and hidden in the foliage. Others sleep deep inside thickets on the ground such as the bobwhites we show, heads all facing out so the flock may scatter if alarmed. Water birds often sleep on the water, where they are safer than they would be if on shore.

Lions Club Has Panel

Responsibilities Of Industry Cited

A community has a right to expect good citizenship from its industries as well as its other citizens, a panel of three executives told the Lions Club meeting Friday noon at the Travelers Hotel.

Industries also have a responsibility to inform communities of their problems; consider the economic effect of their daily decisions on communities; express their feelings on controversial issues, and play an active role in partisan politics, the industrialists said.

DISCUSSING what a community has a right to expect from its industries were William Barker, general superintendent of the Patterson Foundry & Machine Co.; T. H. Kashuba, president of the T-K Roofing Manufacturing Co. of Chester, and John Thompson, treasurer of the Hall China Co. Robert E. Boyce, president of the First National Bank, was moderator.

It was the final program on a series of three on industry-community relations arranged by Dr. Myer Alpern, program chairman and chairman of the Chamber of Commerce's industrial development committee.

Barker stressed the need for the development of better understanding between communities and industries.

Industries also have a responsibility to refrain from asking unreasonable concessions and must be willing to pay their fair share of taxes so the community can provide the services the companies need.

INDUSTRY also must be willing to take advantage of organizations within the community, such as civic, labor, fraternal and service groups, so that it can discuss its problems and the relationship to success and failure, he continued.

The Patterson executive also urged that the dominating industry in a community think of other industries and attempt to work out problems jointly rather than from a selfish approach.

"Industry has a great responsibility to clear the air and create a good business attitude," he said.

—:—

HE ALSO POINTED out industries must make their problems known and solicit aid from others. Barker said it is not enough for an industry to write letters to political leaders or for a community group to endorse a similar action.

"That's only one vote. It takes letters from all citizens on matters affecting the community. Votes are the essence of a politician's existence."

Kashuba stressed the importance of good communications between industries and communities so the towns can offer aid when possible.

The responsibilities of each are deeply entwined, he said, declaring, "We're all in the same boat."

—:—

THE ROOFING firm head said companies generally are willing to contribute funds to some intangible but important things such as fire prevention, pointing out the affect an industrial fire can have on the life of a community.

Recalling a disastrous fire at his own plant about 12 years ago, which was written off as a total loss, Kashuba said the firm had seriously been thinking of relocating in Beaver because of the need for expansion.

The community's attitude was a big factor in the decision to remain in Chester, he said, citing the number of people who were willing to help, including offers of financial aid.

RECALLING HIS previous talk in which he discussed the possibility of a new federal tax on barge shipments, Kashuba said it is essential for industries and communities to make known their feelings. "The river is the biggest asset we have," he declared.

Thompson, substituting for John T. Hall, Hall China president, said firms should consider economic effects on the community in making daily business decisions although it cannot be the overriding consideration.

He pointed out as an example that good production scheduling can help meet the economic needs of the community by providing steady employment.

IN HIS main point, he strongly urged businessmen to take an active role in partisan politics, explaining industry has the responsibility of keeping citizens of the community informed about its problems and feelings concerning controversial issues and how they tend to affect industry.

"I am sure not all industrial executives will agree with me but I feel the industrial leaders must make their feelings known concerning political affairs.

"They owe it to their communities to do their best to protect industry's position in community life by taking part in politics," Thompson declared.

Many feel that becoming active in politics requires running for office or possibly a financial contribution, he continued.

ALTHOUGH BOTH are important, Thompson suggested a businessman desiring to become politically effective seek a specific assignment in his precinct.

"I realize the last points I have made on political action are controversial but I feel strongly that they are correct and that the citizens have the right to know how industry stands.

"I feel generally that industry has fallen down on this responsibility but many steps are being taken to have industry's voice become a more effective one in government and community affairs."

In concluding the program, Boyce expressed surprise there were not more questions about industry's responsibility to provide fair wages, improve working conditions and provide steady employment.

He pointed out Midland merchants are seeking to have Crucible Steel Co. stagger its pay days as a means of providing a steady level on area communities.

John T. Smith, first vice president, presided.

Lions Club Has Panel

Responsibilities Of Industry Cited

A community has a right to expect good citizenship from its industries as well as its other citizens, a panel of three executives told the Lions Club meeting Friday noon at the Travelers Hotel.

Industries also have a responsibility to inform communities of their problems; consider the economic effect of their daily decisions on communities; express their feelings on controversial issues, and play an active role in partisan politics, the industrialists said.

—:—

DISCUSSING what a community has a right to expect from its industries were William Barker, general superintendent of the Patterson Foundry & Machine Co.; T. H. Kashuba, president of the T-K Roofing Manufacturing Co. of Chester, and John Thompson, treasurer of the Hall China Co. Robert E. Boyce, president of the First National Bank, was moderator.

It was the final program on a series of three on industry-community relations arranged by Dr. Myer Alpern, program chairman and chairman of the Chamber of Commerce's industrial development committee.

Barker stressed the need for the development of better understanding between communities and industries.

Industries also have a responsibility to refrain from asking unreasonable concessions and must be willing to pay their fair share of taxes so the community can provide the services the companies need.

—:—

INDUSTRY also must be willing to take advantage of organizations within the community, such as civic, labor, fraternal and service groups, so that it can discuss its problems and the relationship to success and failure, he continued.

The Patterson executive also urged that the dominating industry in a community think of other industries and attempt to work out problems jointly rather than from a selfish approach.

"Industry has a great responsibility to clear the air and create a good business attitude," he said.

—:—

HE ALSO POINTED out industries must make their problems known and solicit aid from others. Barker said it is not enough for an industry to write letters to political leaders or for a community group to endorse a similar action.

"That's only one vote. It takes letters from all citizens on matters affecting the community. Votes are the essence of a politician's existence."

Kashuba stressed the importance of good communications between industries and communities so the towns can offer aid when possible.

The responsibilities of each are deeply entwined, he said, declaring, "We're all in the same boat."

—:—

THE ROOFING firm head said companies generally are willing to contribute funds to some intangible but important things such as fire prevention, pointing out the affect an industrial fire can have on the life of a community.

Recalling a disastrous fire at his own plant about 12 years ago, which was written off as a total loss, Kashuba said the firm had seriously been thinking of relocating in Beaver because of the need for expansion.

The community's attitude was a big factor in the decision to remain in Chester, he said, citing the number of people who were willing to help, including offers of financial aid.

RECALLING HIS previous talk in which he discussed the possibility of a new federal tax on barge shipments, Kashuba said it is essential for industries and communities to make known their feelings. "The river is the biggest asset we have," he declared.

Thompson, substituting for John T. Hall, Hall China president, said firms should consider economic effects on the community in making daily business decisions although it cannot be the overriding consideration.

He pointed out as an example that good production scheduling can help meet the economic needs of the community by providing steady employment.

IN HIS main point, he strongly urged businessmen to take an active role in partisan politics, explaining industry has the responsibility of keeping citizens of the community informed about its problems and feelings concerning controversial issues and how they tend to affect industry.

"I am sure not all industrial executives will agree with me but I feel the industrial leaders must make their feelings known concerning political affairs.

"They owe it to their communities to do their best to protect industry's position in community life by taking part in politics," Thompson declared.

Many feel that becoming active in politics requires running for office or possibly a financial contribution, he continued.

ALTHOUGH BOTH are important, Thompson suggested a businessman desiring to become politically effective seek a specific assignment in his precinct.

"I realize the last points I have made on political action are controversial but I feel strongly that they are correct and that the citizens have the right to know how industry stands.

"I feel generally that industry has fallen down on this responsibility but many steps are being taken to have industry's voice become a more effective one in government and community affairs."

In concluding the program, Boyce expressed surprise there were not more questions about industry's responsibility to provide fair wages, improve working conditions and provide steady employment.

He pointed out Midland merchants are seeking to have Crucible Steel Co. stagger its pay days as a means of providing a steady level on area communities.

John T. Smith, first vice president, presided.

Author Bonnie Remsberg builds up her "point" bank account as she sits with three neighborhood children.

We Solved the Baby-Sitting Problem

When a busy mother needs help, the best place for her to turn is—to other busy mothers!

By BONNIE REMSBERG

Points dwindle when Jennie Remsberg (center) stays with a sitter; Jennie, 2½, always enjoys these occasions.

HOW WOULD YOU like to save $300 or more a year in baby-sitting fees, enjoy the freedom of a spur-of-the-moment social life, and know that while you're away from home your children are in capable hands?

You can—by the same magic formula my husband and I have discovered: a baby-sitting co-operative. Believe me, you'll find it the greatest boon to parenthood since Dr. Spock!

We joined the sitter co-op in our neighborhood soon after our daughter Jennie was born. At a general meeting, I was introduced to the other mothers. Then a committee of co-op officers visited our home to answer questions about the system and to give us a mimeographed list of the members, their addresses, and phone numbers. As new members, we were also given a credit balance of 50 points.

In the co-op, points substitute for money. When another member sits with Jennie, we pay her a specific number of points an hour. When I sit, the person "hiring" me pays me from her point "bank account."

The bookkeeping is handled by the co-op secretary, and all the mothers take turns at this clearinghouse job. When a mother finishes a sitting assignment at our house, she telephones the secretary and reports how long she sat. The secretary translates the hours into points, flips open her notebook of tally sheets, subtracts that amount from my balance, and adds it to the other mother's.

Our first week as co-op members was a typical one. On Monday morning, I telephoned the secretary and asked her to arrange for a sitter for the following afternoon. She called the mothers with the lowest point balances until she found one who could sit; then she called me and gave me the sitter's name.

"Take Jennie to the sitter's home," the secretary reminded me. "Only at night, when their husbands are home to watch their own children, can sitters come to your house."

I dropped Jennie off Tuesday and left for downtown. Five hours of baby sitting cost me 25 points—and they were carefree hours because my child was in the hands of a woman prepared by experience to cope with anything. The sitter told me later: "With four kids of my own around the house, one more was no trouble at all."

SINCE MY point balance was now down to 25, I was anxious to raise it. Thursday night I sat with a neighbor's three children from 7 p.m. to 1 a.m., adding 24 points to my account. As provided in the co-op rules, the children were fed, bathed, and in pajamas when I arrived; their father walked me home afterward.

Friday afternoon a minor domestic crisis arose. Unexpected guests were arriving that evening for a weekend visit with us, and I needed to make a fast trip to the supermarket within an hour.

Because I couldn't give the required 24 hours' notice, the co-op secretary was not obliged to contact a sitter for me. But she did give me the names of several mothers whose point totals were low. Armed with this list, I did my own telephoning until I found a place to leave Jennie.

In that first week alone, I figure we saved at least $13 in baby-sitting fees. All it cost me were a few evenings away from home, during which I had a chance to read and watch tv in the peace and quiet of someone else's house. Jennie is 2½ now, and the sum we've saved in that time is a tidy one.

Only once can I remember our co-op machinery breaking down. My husband and I planned a big party and, without thinking, invited more than half the couples on the sitter list. The secretary was frantic when she called the next day. "Bonnie," she said, "you can't do this. There's no one left to watch the kids!"

How the Sitter Co-op Works

- The operating rules of the author's baby-sitting co-op in Chicago could serve as a guide to other groups of parents who want to set up similar co-ops. Here are the major rules:
- No sitting between 5 p.m. and 7 p.m. except by special arrangement.
- No sitting on major holidays or the eve of major holidays.
- If a sitter is unable to fulfill a sitting appointment, she must find a replacement.
- If a sitting is cancelled after 6 p.m., a five-point penalty is charged (except in the case of illness).
- If a member does not use the co-op for three months without an excuse which the executive board considers valid (such as illness, a new baby, a vacation, etc.), her membership is automatically withdrawn.
- If a husband is to do the sitting, permission must be obtained from the member requesting the sitter.
- Husbands must escort sitters home from night sittings unless other arrangements are made. Husbands also will pick up sitters when a sitting begins after dark, if the sitter wishes it.
- Each member starts with 50 points. Points are subtracted from her total each time she uses a sitter, and points are added to her total each time she sits. Here are the point charges:
- Daytime: One child, five points per hour. One point is charged for each additional child under five years; no points for additional children over five years.
- Nights: After bedtime and before 1 a.m., regardless of number and ages of children, four points per hour; after 1 a.m., six points per hour.
- Children up for more than one-half hour during the evening are charged at daytime rates for the amount of the time up. Minimum charge for evening sitting, 10 points. Extra charge for Saturday night sittings, five points.

COVER:

Photographed by Doris Pinney, this wide-eyed little miss is surely a joy to her parents—except perhaps when it comes to finding her a baby sitter. For a unique solution to this problem, see story above.

In that first week alone, I figure we saved at least $13 in baby-sitting fees. All it cost me were a few evenings away from home, during which I had a chance to read and watch tv in the peace and quiet of someone else's house. Jennie is 2½ now, and the sum we've saved in that time is a tidy one.

Only once can I remember our co-op machinery breaking down. My husband and I planned a big party and, without thinking, invited more than half the couples on the sitter list. The secretary was frantic when she called the next day. "Bonnie," she said, "you can't do this. There's no one left to watch the kids!"

How the Sitter Co-op Works

- The operating rules of the author's baby-sitting co-op in Chicago could serve as a guide to other groups of parents who want to set up similar co-ops. Here are the major rules:
- No sitting between 5 p.m. and 7 p.m. except by special arrangement.
- No sitting on major holidays or the eve of major holidays.
- If a sitter is unable to fulfill a sitting appointment, she must find a replacement.
- If a sitting is cancelled after 6 p.m., a five-point penalty is charged (except in the case of illness).
- If a member does not use the co-op for three months without an excuse which the executive board considers valid (such as illness, a new baby, a vacation, etc.), her membership is automatically withdrawn.
- If a husband is to do the sitting, permission must be obtained from the member requesting the sitter.
- Husbands must escort sitters home from night sittings unless other arrangements are made. Husbands also will pick up sitters when a sitting begins after dark, if the sitter wishes it.
- Each member starts with 50 points. Points are subtracted from her total each time she uses a sitter, and points are added to her total each time she sits. Here are the point charges:
- Daytime: One child, five points per hour. One point is charged for each additional child under five years; no points for additional children over five years.
- Nights: After bedtime and before 1 a.m., regardless of number and ages of children, four points per hour; after 1 a.m., six points per hour.
- Children up for more than one-half hour during the evening are charged at daytime rates for the amount of the time up. Minimum charge for evening sitting, 10 points. Extra charge for Saturday night sittings, five points.

COVER:

Photographed by Doris Pinney, this wide-eyed little miss is surely a joy to her parents—except perhaps when it comes to finding her a baby sitter. For a unique solution to this problem, see story above.

George Blanda has alternated between the bench and stardom in two leagues; now he faces still another crisis as "Quarterback No. 1"

By JACK RYAN

ing quarterback was really irresistible."

The Blandas took an apartment in Houston, enrolled the youngsters in school, and George harnessed up again. In 1960, he led the Oilers to the championship and dominated every game as quarterback.

In 1961, George viewed games from a familiar vantage point again—the bench. "We got off to a slow start," he explains, "and our coach then, Lou Rymkus, looked around for the trouble. Well, he decided it was too many 'old' players, and he benched the lot of us."

HOW DID George feel when he saw his star waning again? "Well, I had made up my mind to retire at the end of the season," he recalls, "but while I was on the bench I junked that idea. I wasn't going to quit on a sour note. I wanted to go out as No. 1—but the question was whether I'd get to play again."

The Oilers' "youth" program didn't bring any gusher of victories, so oil man Adams fired Rymkus in midseason with a dismal 1-3-1 record. Wally Lemm replaced him. "Right away our morale climbed," Blanda says. "Lemm did wonders."

He also installed George at quarterback during a game with Dallas. It was the second quarter, and the Texans were leading 7-0. "I decided to take a chance on Blanda," Lemm recalls, "and see if he could get a tie by half time. I'll be darned if we didn't have a 17-7 lead at the half!"

Blanda threw three touchdowns, kicked a field goal and three extra points in a 38-7 win. He was never benched again, and the Oilers won every game afterward, including a 10-3 championship tilt with San Diego, in which George kicked a record 46-yard field goal and threw a 35-yard pass to Billy Cannon.

He was named American League football player of the year and signed a new contract—"It's hard to quit when you're at your best, too," he sighs ruefully. But as this season opened, George was not at his best. He had to contend with his weakened condition—and another new coach, Pop Ivy. Ivy's reputation rests on a tricky, wide-open game more complex than the straight T at which George excels. Even if he can get youthful snap back into his aging muscles, can he adapt to a new system?

About the only one not worried was George Blanda. "I've always had a strong desire to prove myself against odds. I like winning and hate being second best. I'm not going to be, either."

Determination has brought Blanda out of the shadows before, and it's an ageless quality that probably will help Mr. Comeback do it again.

Blanda gets cheers from daughter Leslie, 7, but son Rick, 10, roots for auto racers.

Can Mr. Comeback Do It Again?

FOR GEORGE BLANDA, an American Football League exhibition game early this season must have seemed like an old nightmare.

There he was, the only quarterback to star in both professional leagues, sitting on the Houston Oilers' bench, irritatingly aware of whispers that age and superior talent had finally caught up with the craggy-featured veteran.

"I was pretty weak and tired, too," George recalls. "In pretraining medical exams, doctors had spotted nodes on my thyroid and thought they might be malignant. They operated and found I was okay—but I spent a week in the hospital and almost two weeks in bed at home. While everyone else was toughening up in training, I was softening up—and at 34, a football player can't afford that."

But when coach Frank "Pop" Ivy gave the call, George was ready. On "wobbly knees," he kicked field goals of 27, 22, 18, and 9 yards plus three extra points to help beat Denver, 33-17. But, typically, George wasn't satisfied. He wasn't acting full time as field general, spark plug, artful passer. He said later: "I'll be quarterback No. 1 in the regular season, though. I'm not worried. I've had trouble before."

For a frank, highly articulate business executive-athlete, this is an unusual understatement. George has been "washed up" more often than an old sweat shirt, yet always ended up No. 1 on the line. He qualifies as football's "Mr. Comeback."

Blanda served an unspectacular apprenticeship at the University of Kentucky before being drafted by the Chicago Bears of the National Football League. From 1949 to 1951, he was the specialist who ran out to kick field goals and extra points, then trotted back to the bench. In 1952, however, the Bears became fair game for even the weak sisters in the league, and coach-owner George Halas reached down in the barrel and pulled out his No. 3 quarterback for a game against Detroit.

Blanda pinpointed three touchdown passes and added the extra points. Then, with Detroit leading 23-17 in the last six seconds, he hit Ed Sprinkle for the tying touchdown and, after the gun had sounded, kicked the winning point.

"George Blanda," Halas said in promoting him to top spot, "is the best danged quarterback in the league." Two years later, though, George was back using his right toe instead of his brain and arm, and Halas, who experiments with quarterbacks as persistently as Dr. Jonas Salk with monkeys, was rifling through an assortment of other field generals. In 1958, Blanda quit, leaving a league record of 156 consecutive points-after-touchdowns.

"Why I quit is a long story that I don't want to talk about—ever," he says without rancor. But on occasion, he has exploded: "I had a bellyful of nothing but kicking!" And his distaste is apparent when he talks about being a "stand-by quarterback."

Family considerations played a part in Blanda's "retirement," too. "My wife Betty didn't like the idea of me being away from home so much, especially with our two children growing up. And I found being away one of the hardest parts of pro football. Betty had been after me to quit, and in 1958 I agreed."

GEORGE CLAIMS he felt little nostalgia for the gridiron in 1959, enjoying life in his modest three-bedroom ranch home in LaGrange Park, Ill., and getting better acquainted with his son Rick, 10, and daughter Leslie, 7.

"Leslie is the football fan of the family," George says. "A real all-out booster. Betty is a great backer, too, and has been since I first met her in a physical-education class at college. But Rick's heroes are racing-car drivers like A. J. Foyt. Football players?—well, they're just guys like Dad."

One of the top NFL teams approached Blanda that year, but he turned down their lucrative offer. Then John Breen, player scout for the Houston Oilers, camped on the Blanda doorstep. The AFL was just being launched, and Houston millionaire Bud Adams was determined that his team would lead off with an established quarterback. Breen beat down the Blandas' objections and finally signed George.

"Say it was the money that brought me back," George says. "I'll make more in four years with the AFL than I did in 10 in the National. But another thing was that Betty was won over because she learned we could move the whole family down to Houston during the season. As for me, I'll admit the chance to prove I was a start-

The Myth About Marilyn

By BEN HECHT

■ Newspaper reporter, dramatist, novelist, screen writer, biographer, critic—over the past 50 years Ben Hecht has displayed his versatile writing talent as each of these. His best-remembered works include "The Front Page," "Twentieth Century," "A Child of the Century," "Perfidy," and "Charlie." His many notable screenplays include "The Scoundrel," "Wuthering Heights," "Viva Villa," "Scarface," "Gunga Din," "Notorious," and "Spellbound." Often an outspoken critic of Hollywood, Hecht here presents a surprising appraisal of the movie industry and the part it played in the tragic life and death of Marilyn Monroe.

THE LEGEND of Marilyn Monroe will keep growing for many years. It will end up, as legends usually do, with all the facts upside down. Just weeks after her death, eager tales of Marilyn's life already are filled with moony misconceptions—and these from people who knew her well. Wait till the historians take over her legend-building.

The legend basis, already solidly laid down, is that Marilyn Monroe was a movie star "wrecked" by Hollywood, driven to despair by the obliterating glare of fame, and by fear that this glare was vanishing; and who was further stricken by the failure of her last two marriages.

It wasn't that way.

I spent 10 days in 1954 interviewing Miss Monroe in San Francisco. A publishing house had asked me to write a book about the new glamour girl ablaze on the cinema horizon. Her marriage to Joe DiMaggio interrupted the interview, and the book never was finished.

Marilyn told me hundreds of stories of her first 28 years, stories that will never be part of the growing Monroe legends because they revealed that Marilyn had been wrecked by the circumstances of her life since the age of five; by the disturbed character she had inherited; by a string of evil events that would have crushed a half-dozen "ordinary" girls. Twice in her prefame days she had tried suicide, each time because a man she loved abandoned her.

"That wasn't really the reason for my trying to kill myself," Marilyn told me. "The full reason was that I didn't want to live. There was too much pain in living."

There's the truth about Marilyn Monroe—she was saved by Hollywood. Fame saved her. The spotlight beating on her 24 hours a day made the world seem livable to her. And her last two marriages gave her years of important human relationships which she had never known in her days of prefame vagabonding.

Marilyn embraced her fame as her greatest love. After her return from her Korean honeymoon with Joe DiMaggio, I asked her, "What's the happiest time you've ever had?"

"It was the time last month when I sang to the soldiers in Korea," she answered. "There were thousands of them. It was a very cold afternoon, and it was snowing. All the soldiers sat in their winter uniforms. I appeared in a décolleté evening gown, bare back, bare arms. And I was so happy and so excited that I didn't know it was cold or snowing. In fact, the snow never fell on me. It melted away almost before it touched my skin. That was my happiest time—when the thousands of soldiers all yelled my name over and over."

Reign of the Sex Goddess

The reprieve of fame had begun before Korea. Marilyn continued to enjoy the "snowfall that never touched her," the pole-to-pole huzzahs that sounded for the world's No. 1 Sex Goddess.

It was all more or less unreal. Marilyn told me before her second marriage: "I've never liked sex. I don't think I ever will. It seems just the opposite of love."

Disliking sex didn't interfere with Marilyn's emergence as a world sex symbol. In fact, her dislike of it helped. It added a note of childlike innocence to her siren face.

The truth about Marilyn was that she was a sort of evangelist. She peddled a dream to a preoccupied atom age. Her fervor was that of the missionary with happy tidings. Her happy tidings were her luscious figure, her inviting mouth. She looked for no romance for herself. Her happiness lay in her missionary work for others. She lived in the midst of her fame as if she were more a poster than a woman.

The unreality never hurt Marilyn. Unreality

In one of the last photos taken of her, MM strikes classic pose on set of ill-fated "Something's Got to Give."

her; not so, says this noted told him reveal the real truth was the only world in which she could thrive. The real world held only hobgoblins for her, terrors that harried her nights, confusions that kept a dust storm going in her heart.

Then why did all the "bad things" happen to Marilyn during her last spotty years? Nothing happened! The trouble was that things stopped happening. The spotlight of fame dimmed. Age began its realistic work on her face and beauty.

For some seven years, Marilyn had found health in Monroe billboards and magazine layouts, in the spate of anecdotes, gossip, curiosity, and excitement that her name evoked. She seldom went after publicity because she was a bright girl who knew that renown is not a thing to be solicited.

Marilyn's heart wasn't broken by the dimming of her fame. I have nothing factual to report of her last years, but the important fact of those years was in the stories Marilyn had told me in San Francisco. The Marilyn of the past started coming back. Loneliness, fear, and an old desperation returned. Marilyn found herself slipping back into the realistic world from which Hollywood and fame had rescued her. Bolstered by friends more confused than herself, she started talking of doing "finer things" in the movies and even on the stage. Art was going to save her, help her find herself, was the verdict of her friends.

This was nonsense. Art could never bring back the wildly enthusiastic cries of the soldiers in the Korean snowstorm. At best, art could earn her a small living and the benediction of a small coterie. No, art was not for Marilyn any more than hopscotch is for a high jumper.

The Myth Exploded

I know why the Monroe myth will have it that fame "and all that goes with it" destroyed Marilyn. Why? Simply because it makes a better myth. People like to think that there is something sinister in success. It helps them accept their own unspotlighted existence. But there seldom is anything unpleasant about success.

In San Francisco, Marilyn told me: "When they restored me to life after my second suicide attempt, I felt very angry for some time. I thought people have no right making you live when you don't want to. But now I'm glad it happened the way it did. I'm glad I'm alive. I hope to stay glad for a long time."

I remember one of Marilyn's stories. It bears telling as a curious epitaph. When Marilyn was 10 years old, her mother was discharged from an institution in which she had been treated for drug addiction. She got back her old job at the Columbia studio as a movie cutter, saved her money for several months, then triumphantly removed her daughter from the orphanage.

Marilyn's mother had made a down payment on a house. For the first time in her life, Marilyn moved into a home where she was a daughter, not an orphan servant.

"It was a pretty little house," Marilyn told me, "with quite a few rooms. But there was no furniture in it, except for two cots that we slept on, a small kitchen table, and two kitchen chairs. The living room was entirely empty, but I didn't mind. It was a very pretty room.

"A White Piano I Couldn't Play"

"After several weeks, my mother came home from work in a truck. I watched two men carry in the first furniture she had bought for our house. It was a wonderful-looking white piano. It was put in the living room. There wasn't any piano bench. It just stood there by itself. Neither my mother nor I could play it. But it looked very beautiful to me.

"Shortly afterward, my mother became upset again and had to be taken back to the institution. And I had to go back to the orphanage. I always remembered the white piano. I saw it in my mind every night as I grew up.

"Finally, I got my first good part in 'The Asphalt Jungle,' and I had enough money to do what I'd always dreamed of doing. I started looking for that white piano. I went to all the warehouses and old auction rooms in Los Angeles. And after a month, I found it. It was just as white and beautiful as ever. I knew it was the same piano because Fredric March's name was engraved on it. I bought it for $100 and took it home. It stood in my room for several years without a piano bench—just a white piano I couldn't play."

The laughter-wreathed face of Marilyn Monroe, the happy baby stare as the wind blew her skirts sky high—these are memories the movies gave us. The movies did not destroy Marilyn; they gave her a long and joyous reprieve from the devils which hounded her in earlier years and which came back to hound her in the end.

Shari Lewis Sheds Her Pony Tail

ONCE UPON A TIME a perky performer named Shari Lewis had a pony tail loved by one and all—even the puppets on her tv show. In fact, it was her trademark. But Shari was soon to become a mother —and how would it look then? So she paid a visit to hair stylist Enrico Caruso. At first, Shari was timid about having her tresses cut, so Enrico plucked a wig from his collection. "Mmmm, I like," said Shari. Her hubby agreed—until he found out it was a wig. But Shari really wanted a medium-length hairdo to wear up or down. So Enrico began snipping (below left) while Shari allowed her clownish nature to ex-press itself. Next Enrico tried two different styles (below right). "Interesting, but it's not really me," Shari said of the first. And of the second: "Don't you think it's still longish, Enrico?" Then she chose the bouffant style (below)—and voilà, a new, sophisticated Shari Lewis. "Will I be able to do this myself, Enrico?" she asked. He assured her she would. But, you may wonder, did Shari give up her pony tail? Not a chance. Her fans protested so when she shed it that Shari decided to have one made up, one she could just pin on. Now Shari had her choice of lovely hairdos, and everyone lived happily ever after.

The SPACE RACE: Are We Winning or Losing?

Claims and counterclaims have most Americans confused; here are the facts—in a report by an insider

By ALVIN B. WEBB, JR.

Cape Canaveral Bureau Chief for United Press International and author of "Countdown: An Insider's Story of Our Men in Space"

THE SPACE AGE began five years ago on Oct. 4, 1957, when the Russians launched their first Sputnik. Yet most Americans haven't the slightest idea where we stand in the battle for mastery of space.

The truth is: the United States is no longer behind the Russians but slightly ahead of them in the over-all race—and when it comes to the next big goal in space, a manned trip to the moon, we have a surprisingly good chance of achieving it before they do.

Soviet successes deserve respect, but they do not merit the frightened reaction of some Americans. Too few of us are aware that the Soviet Union has orbited only about one-fourth as many satellites as the United States.

Russia's "firsts" were memorable—the first earth satellite, the first animal in space, the first man in space, and last month's simultaneous orbiting of two men—but they all bore an unmistakable tinge of propaganda.

The simultaneous flights of Andrian Nikolayev and Pavel Popovich were statistically similar to the earlier flights of Yuri Gagarin and Gherman Titov. There was nothing new about the space craft used or the technique (even the Russians admitted that the twin cosmonauts did not rendezvous in space).

While America's "firsts" have not been as spectacular (or as well-publicized), they have been far more valuable scientifically.

Only with the start of the Cosmos series of satellite shots this year have the Russians indicated that they are launching any sort of program to study the radiation, meteorite threats, and solar-flare problems that man will have to deal with in space. This is information the U. S. space program has been piling up ever since it launched the first Vanguard, Explorer, and Pioneer satellites.

From a Russian viewpoint, an even darker side of the picture is the matter of hard, cold cash. Both nations must spend a great deal more money if they are going to be successful in reaching the moon. The rockets that the Soviet Union used to put Gargarin, Titov, Nikolayev, and Popovich into orbit are far too small to send men to the moon. So are the ones we used to orbit John Glenn and Scott Carpenter. We are now building much bigger ones. But can Russia, a country much poorer financially, afford the extra burden of competing in a race that will take years to show any dividends other than propaganda gains?

Ironically, Russia's lead in costly "spectaculars" during the early years of the space age may result in its defeat in the race for the moon. The Russian philosophy of rocket design called for bigger and bigger vehicles whose sheer size and power made early orbiting possible and gave the Soviet Union her early lead.

Meanwhile, the United States was tackling the problem in exactly the opposite way—through miniaturization. Our use of smaller rockets and capsules has put us at a distinct propaganda disadvantage. But to get to the moon, such small components are absolutely necessary.

No one—including the Russians—has yet contrived a rocket or fuel that can shoot a gigantic payload to the moon. And before anyone can do it, the United States will land a small, but manned, payload there. We don't need Russia's huge capsule components, but they do need—and lack—our miniaturized ones.

WHEN WILL WE land men on the moon? By 1967 at the latest. And that isn't just a guess; it is the estimate of James E. Webb, head of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration. The nation's top space scientist, Wernher von Braun, hopes to do it even sooner—by 1966.

To pave a safe road to the moon, NASA is going to pepper the skies with some 260 satellites, manned and unmanned. Then it is going to put into action superboosters that will make the 360,000-pound thrust of the Atlas look puny.

Successful test shots already have been made with a colossus called the Saturn, a rocket with 1,500,000 pounds of thrust. After preliminary exploration by the Saturn, an advanced version of it called the C-5 will orbit crews of spacemen. The next step will be the Apollo, a spaceship that will ride atop one of these behemoths and will take its pilots to the moon.

The rendezvous method probably will be used in the initial U. S. moon trips. This method calls for crews and a mother spaceship to be launched into orbit around the moon. A two-man "bug" will then make a lunar landing. The landing crew will be able to maneuver the bug back into a lunar orbit and rendezvous with the mother ship for the voyage back to earth. The rendezvous technique will be relatively easy owing to weightlessness.

On the basis of all the information available to NASA (including secret intelligence reports), Webb concedes that Russia probably will score two more "spectaculars" before the United States can. These will be: a multimanned orbital flight and a multimanned flight past the moon. The Soviets can do this because they perfected their heavy boosters before we did.

Nevertheless, in view of our astronautic advantages, Webb, von Braun, and Robert Gilruth, director of Project Mercury, all are confident that we will accomplish a lunar landing before the Russians. They believe that the first cosmonauts to land on the moon may well be greeted by American astronauts.

Who's in the Circle?

Two players face each other and join hands. With hands still joined, they must catch another player by looping their arms around him. He then joins the circle. Then the three players catch a fourth. Last to be caught is the winner. A fast and funny game!

Peanut Race!

By Betty Kahn

This is for a party or picnic. The boys, armed with tablespoons, form one circle. They stand arm's-length apart. The girls, with teaspoons, stand the same way in a smaller circle and just inside the boys' one.

Each team has one unshelled peanut and at the word "Peanuts!" start passing the peanut twice around their circle. The peanut is passed on the spoon with one hand only. Each player keeps his other hand behind his back. When a peanut drops, it must be scooped up only with the spoon. The first team that passes the peanut all the way around twice is the winner.

This is a giggly game and the winning team gets a box of peanut brittle!

Coin Date Trick

By Angar Silke

You need a penny (not worn) and a square of plain paper for this trick. Place the penny face up on the table and tell a player to cover it immediately with the paper. Then ask him if he can tell the date of the penny without lifting the paper.

The trick is to run a pencil back and forth over the paper. The inscription and date on the coin will then show.

Junior TREASURE Chest

Edited by MARJORIE BARROWS, Editor of The Children's Hour

Who's in the Circle?

Two players face each other and join hands. With hands still joined, they must catch another player by looping their arms around him. He then joins the circle. Then the three players catch a fourth. Last to be caught is the winner. A fast and funny game!

Peanut Race!

By Betty Kahn

This is for a party or picnic. The boys, armed with tablespoons, form one circle. They stand arm's-length apart. The girls, with teaspoons, stand the same way in a smaller circle and just inside the boys' one.

Each team has one unshelled peanut and at the word "Peanuts!" start passing the peanut twice around their circle. The peanut is passed on the spoon with one hand only. Each player keeps his other hand behind his back. When a peanut drops, it must be scooped up only with the spoon. The first team that passes the peanut all the way around twice is the winner.

This is a giggly game and the winning team gets a box of peanut brittle!

Coin Date Trick

By Angar Silke

You need a penny (not worn) and a square of plain paper for this trick. Place the penny face up on the table and tell a player to cover it immediately with the paper. Then ask him if he can tell the date of the penny without lifting the paper.

The trick is to run a pencil back and forth over the paper. The inscription and date on the coin will then show.

My workshop's where I make things
With lathe and saw and plumb,
But I've learned not to take things
To show to guests who come.

I've had enough! Oh, brother,
They'll see my work no more:
I just can't stand another,
"You made it? What's it for?"

Monday: I promised, dear diary, to record my days in you, my new friend. I am so lonesome sometimes.

Tuesday: George Govern is the most handsome, intelligent, understanding man I ever met, though just a trifle shy. I'm so happy when I'm with him, which is never enough.

Wednesday: After work, I cleaned the house for Mother. I do like helping Mother with housework. George came over and talked baseball and football. He's always so interesting.

Thursday: I bought a cookbook today—but a secondhand one. I'm not one to throw money away! Also started sewing a dress for the Saturday dance George asked me to. George doesn't realize it, but he's really quite a nice dancer.

Friday: George wants to go fishing with the boys Sunday, so I immediately said I didn't mind breaking our date. Men should get together.

Saturday: George happened to find this diary after I misplaced it. He proposed.

Sunday: Good-bye, diary.

Other young executives of the company had been sent off on business trips, but not Twitchel. He went to his boss to complain. "The others take trips," he said. "Why not me?"

The boss sighed resignedly. "Well, all right," he said, "if you insist." He flicked on his office intercom and told his secretary: "Miss Weems, send Twitchel on a trip to the post office for some stamps."

Twitchel shuddered. "No, no, boss. I mean a real trip—one that involves flying!"

"Miss Weems," the boss barked, "make those air-mail stamps!" —Jim Henry

A science teacher was giving a demonstration to her high-school class. "I am going to drop this silver dollar into the glass of acid. Will it dissolve?" she asked.

"No," one student said immediately.

"Well, since you don't think acid will dissolve a silver dollar, suppose you tell us why," the teacher replied.

"Because if it would," the student said, "no teacher would dare drop that much money into it."

I was just thinking...®

ON SUCH a beautiful day as this we speak in sorrow. It has been a bitter weekend for our young.

We talk of the two boys who drove into the middle of a train and died at impact. An eyewitness describes another accident yesterday on peaceful Vista Drive, where the quiet was shattered by the screams of a dying boy. We hear, too, of a teen-age husband who died in a ditch along the highway in a third accident during the same weekend.

When someone is killed in our town, we know him or his friends. The bell tolls more loudly in a small place. Lately it has tolled often for our young.

We agree among us that there was only one good thing, if it can be called good, about the tragedy on Vista Drive. Up and down the drive live the young. They had gathered when the police came. They had to help identify the bodies of their friends. Perhaps they will remember this pain when next they take the wheel.

The doctor took his own teen-age son with him to the hospital when he was called. Not in malice, not in punishment. Only to let a boy know that there, but for the grace of God, he lay also.

The two who drove into the train leave a gap in the school football lineup this fall. The young husband leaves a widow and an infant son. Two of the three in that car on Vista Drive will live with a ghost.

ALL OF US tempt the fates sometimes. But the young find exhilaration in reckless joy, in the chase, in speed itself, in swimming against the current, sailing into the hurricane's eye. In a sense, we can only envy them this carefree confidence in their own invincibility as we plead the caution born of experience.

All our words of wisdom are meaningless except at such a time as this in our town when black ink drips from the headlines and the broken bodies of their friends are lifted from the wrecks.

It is a cruel thing to learn from horror. It is tragic to be taught by pain. Some of our young will learn in no other way. Some of our young live as though there weren't a tomorrow.

Sometimes there isn't.
